THROUGH ICE AND COLD BARGE GOES THROUGH

Winter's icy grip is plaguing Okanagan Lake traffic, with tugs and barges battling their way through ice under the bridge. Conditions are reminiscent of a few winters back when the lake froze over. Since then, tug hulls have been reinforced to withstand ice-breaking pressures, but there appears to be no remedy for unseasonable weather which has set snow records in the city. Low temperatures this winter have also caused havoc with the mechanical operation of Okanagan Lake bridge, causing a chain-reaction in vehicular traffic and temper flare-ups through delays in normal positioning of the lift span following lake traffic. The tug and barge pictured were heading for Penticton when they were caught by the Courier photographer as they slashed their way through thick ice under the bridge.

IRA Will Keep Away From Newry Parade

BELFAST (CP) — An officer of the Irish Republican Army said today that the anti-British guerrillas will steer clear of the British troops ordered to disperse a Roman Catholic mourning march Sunday in Newry.

"We plan to keep well away," an officer of the IRA's militant Provisional wing told local newspapers. "It would be distinctly unwise for us to go into a situation like this where we would run the risk of arrest or shooting by the soldiers."

Up to 30,000 demonstrators are expected to join the march. The Civil Rights Association is organizing it as a tribute to the 13 Catholic civilians killed when British paratroopers broke up another banned procession in Londonderry last Sunday.

All public processions are banned in Northern Ireland, and the British Army warned that its soldiers would break up the Newry march by force if necessary. The army brought in 500 more infantrymen, boosting its strength in the province to 15,000 troops.

The Civil Rights Association appealed to IRA gunmen to stay away.

"We do not want any trouble-makers in our ranks," a spokesman said. "If there is any violence it must be made clear that it comes only from the British Army."

Thursday night, Prime Minister Edward Heath of Britain published the text of letters he sent to John Cardinal Heenan, Roman Catholic Archbishop of Westminster, William Cardinal Conway, Roman Catholic Primate of all Ireland and Jack Lynch, premier of the Irish Republic, appealing to them to use their influence to stop the Newry march.

A spokesman for the army said it is highly likely that the 1st Battalion of the Parachute Regiment, which was involved in last Sunday's shootings, will be in Newry this weekend.

The Parachute Regiment has been blamed for firing indiscriminately during the action in Londonderry and for laughing at the victims of the shooting.

The army and the British government have denied these charges and Britain's chief justice, Lord Widgery, is to conduct an independent one-man inquiry into the affair.

Civil rights leader Kevin McCurry said Thursday: "The Newry march is going ahead as planned."

Home Secretary Reginald Maudling of Britain appealed to the civil rights organizers to think again about their decision.

He said: "The dangers of the action you propose are grave, the responsibility on your shoulders is heavy."

In Lurgan, 20 miles southwest of Belfast, troops dispersed funeral mobs of Protestants and Catholics who were threatening a street battle.

'Sani-Stations' For Okanagan Sought By Basin Water Board

Sani-stations at yacht clubs and marinas in the Okanagan basin will be pursued by the Okanagan Basin Water Board in the interest of anti-pollution. The board also decided at its regular meeting Thursday to approach the federal government for provision of sani-station holding tanks to handle discharge of domestic wastes from boats. The recommendation of the board's technical committee was approved on a motion by P. A. Farmer, following discussion launched by secretary-manager, William Parchomchuk.

Len Bawtree, newly elected chairman of the board, suggested Mr. Parchomchuk take the sani-station matter up with marinas and yacht clubs and report at the board's meeting in April. In another motion based on a technical planning recommendation, the board requested the pollution control board disallow a permit application by Sumnerland Fish Hatcheries and that the waste outfall into Okanagan Lake from that operation be removed completely.

Sumnerland city council, in a letter to the board requesting its support "on this serious matter of pollution," is also concerned with the operation of Mac-

Donald's Consolidated Cannery, which Sumnerland city fathers feel is also contributing to the pollution count of the lake. The letter adds the municipal council has also given "considerable consideration" to implementation of a bylaw similar to one in Kelowna in an attempt to correct "this serious problem."

The reference applied to both operations.

The basin board dealt with the fish hatchery first, since that company had already applied for a pollution control permit for discharge of 1,000,000 gallons daily into the lake.

In other agenda business, the board confirmed the appointment of directors W. C. Bennett, Mel Marshall and D. A. Pritchard from the Regional District of Central Okanagan; Len Bawtree and Patrick Duke from the Regional District of North Okanagan, and P. A. Farmer from the Regional District of Okanagan-Similkameen.

HYDRO NORMAL

VANCOUVER (CP) — British Columbia Hydro and Power Authority operations were expected to return to normal today with members of the Office and Technical Employees Union ending a four-day walkout.

B.C. Budget Out Today

VICTORIA (CP) — Premier W. A. C. Bennett submitted his 1972-73 budget to the British Columbia legislature today, and there are few indications as to what it might contain.

The premier, who doubles as finance minister, has let it be known only that this will be the "best budget ever." For the second year in a row, he won't allow reporters an advance look at the document prior to its delivery in the house.

There are indications that a reduction in provincial succession duties may be put into effect following the federal exit from the estate tax field on Jan. 1. The province will enact a gift tax along with all other provinces and revenue from this would offset some of the lost succession duties.

Mr. Bennett was to begin reading his budget speech to the legislature at 2 p.m. PST.

War Threat

DUBLIN (AP) — Irish Prime Minister Jack Lynch said today that the activities of British soldiers in Northern Ireland could "lead to a war situation."

Dief Angry

OTTAWA (CP) — An angry John Diefenbaker loosed a blast at the federal government today over the hiring of Pierre Vallieres, a former leader of the terrorist Front de Liberation du Quebec, for a federally-funded winter employment project. "This is a shocking situation," said the former prime minister, Conservative MP for Saskatchewan's Prince Albert riding.

SADAT LEAVES

MOSCOW (AP) — President Anwar Sadat of Egypt left here today after two days of talks with Kremlin leaders. There was no indication what the Russians promised him. Sadat flew to Yugoslavia for a two-day visit, and it was reported he would also visit Libya and Syria before returning to Cairo.

Roaring Blizzard Pummels Ottawa

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A roaring blizzard pummelled Ottawa today for the second day running and disabled the federal bureaucracy.

The storm that swept over Ontario and Quebec blew 18 inches of snow into the national capital Thursday and overnight, relenting for a couple of early-morning hours, then resumed with winds gusting to 40 miles an hour.

All schools in the area were closed, most mail deliveries cancelled, transportation systems largely stalled and thousands of public servants snowed in at home.

Plows opened the main streets of central Ottawa, but other roads and district highways were plugged or barely passable.

Air service was out of action, trains delayed and inter-city buses stalled.

Federal government departments said the storm kept many officials from their offices, although some made it by car, on buses that battled through deep drifts or on foot—by snowshoe for the most determined workers.

One person was killed in traffic. Widespread power outages caused furnaces to shut off intermittently during the night as wet, freezing snow shorted out electric lines.

In the Atlantic provinces a storm swept in from the Atlantic, bringing heavy rain to southern Nova Scotia, blizzards in northern areas and high winds. Up to 12 inches of snow was forecast for northern New Brunswick.

CP Rail May Seek Injunction After 70 Engineers Walk Out

VANCOUVER (CP) — CP Rail was expected to seek an injunction today in the wake of a walkout by 70 locomotive engineers Thursday which virtually halted traffic on the company's lines in and out of Vancouver.

The stoppage by members of the Canadian Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers forced cancellation of Thursday night's eastbound passenger run and brought freight movement to a standstill. A westbound passenger train arrived here about an hour late Thursday night.

At issue is the case of an engineer with 28 years' service who was withdrawn from service in January because he could not meet the minimum eyesight standards of the Canadian transport commission.

The union claims the company wanted to "give him a job with a broom, sweeping up the shop or something."

YOUTH KILLED

MONTREAL (CP) — One youth was killed and a policeman wounded early today in a shootout in east-end Montreal.

The incident took place shortly before 2 a.m. after two youths hijacked a taxi.

NEW GRAVES FOUND

DACCIA (Reuters) — The Press Trust of India reported Thursday discovery of more mass graves in Bangladesh—this time in the university town of Rajshahi, 125 miles northwest of Dacca. The news agency said the three graves so far discovered in Rajshahi were believed to contain as many as 1,500 decomposed bodies and skeletons.

THANT GETS POST

UNITED NATIONS (Reuters) — U Thant, the former UN secretary-general, was named Thursday to a $30,000-a-year senior fellow of the Adlai Stevenson Institute of International Affairs in Chicago. His job will be to analyse his 10 years as UN chief with particular reference to its peacekeeping role and its chief executive.

The evidence came in a sworn statement from research assistant Richard S. Kind, who says he helped Irving compile The Autobiography of Howard Hughes.

He said he stumbled upon a meeting between Irving and Hughes in a motel room and Hughes gave him a prune from a bag in his pocket.

Irving says he compiled the autobiography from numerous interviews with the 66-year-old billionaire between February and December, 1971. Hughes denies having met Irving and says the book is a hoax.

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Times publishes what it says are excerpts from the controversial Howard Hughes "autobiography," but stresses that the material "could have come from previously published anecdotes" about the billionaire. The Times also says the ex-

City's Teachers Prepare To Vote In Pay Dispute

NOW HUNTERS CAN RELAX . . .

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canoe Lake Indian Band at Canoe Narrows, Sask., has received a $15,000 federal local initiatives grant to help keep cattle out of the village and off the local beach.

The manpower department announced today that the grant would provide work for 11 people clearing and piling brush around two large pasture areas. The cleared areas could then be fenced.

The Indians asked for the grant in order to confine their cattle which had been wandering on public roads, through the village and onto the village beach, a department spokesman said.

The grant would also "assist hunters who can't distinguish the difference between cattle, horses and moose," the Indians said in their application.

If Strike Decided Upon, It Could Be A Long One

The British Columbia Teachers' Federation have been authorized by the representative assembly of BCTF to make preparations for a strike vote by the organization's 23,500 members.

Maurice Reveyrand, president of the Kelowna Teachers' Association, said he preferred to reserve comment on the directive but added "I hope they don't go on strike." He said if teachers did decide to follow the assembly's ruling "teachers should be prepared to go on a long strike."

The assembly is a policy-making body between annual general meetings, and also called for a membership levy of one day's pay (about $1 million) for publicity purposes in a campaign by teachers over salary increases with the provincial government. Education Minister, Donald Brothers, recently introduced an amendment to the Public Schools Act under which salary increases beyond the figure set by the government would have to go before local ratepayers in a yes-or-no plebiscite.

Such legislation, Mr. Reveyrand declared, had an "adverse effect on the process of education" where legislation was meant to "protect the rights of individuals and groups and help facilitate the organization of society."

Federation president, Adam Robertson, said timing of the strike vote had been left to the executive, and stressed the vote would be the federation's "last resort" if Mr. Brothers did not withdraw his amendment.

Strikers Hit CBC Again

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

CBC technicians were off the job today in at least six Canadian centres—five of them on the Prairies—in their continuing series of rotating strikes against the publicly-owned broadcasting corporation.

However, management personnel were manning the operations at Edmonton, Calgary, Regina, Saskatoon, Moose Jaw, Sask., and Sydney, N.S. Officials said there were some program disruptions but no stations were off the air.

In Winnipeg, the technicians were adopting a work-to-rule practice.

The technicians, members of the National Association of Broadcast Employees and Technicians, walked off the job Thursday in Toronto, Ottawa and Windsor, Ont., but were back to work today.

In Toronto, the workers walked out at noon and set up picket lines in front of the CBC's downtown headquarters.

Organic Prunes Enter Bizarre Hughes Saga

NEW YORK (Reuters) — A bag of organic prunes emerged today as bizarre evidence to support author Clifford Irving's account of how he came to write his controversial life story of Howard Hughes.

The evidence came in a sworn statement from research assistant Richard S. Kind, who says he helped Irving compile The Autobiography of Howard Hughes.

He said he stumbled upon a meeting between Irving and Hughes in a motel room and Hughes gave him a prune from a bag in his pocket.

Irving says he compiled the autobiography from numerous interviews with the 66-year-old billionaire between February and December, 1971. Hughes denies having met Irving and says the book is a hoax.

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Times publishes what it says are excerpts from the controversial Howard Hughes "autobiography," but stresses that the material "could have come from previously published anecdotes" about the billionaire. The Times also says the excerpt, obtain from a source familiar with Clifford Irving's manuscript, give "no indication . . . that Mr. Hughes had a part in preparing the manuscript."

Hughes comes across as a bit of a nutcase in the autobiography, The Times says. The account says he was careless about libelling others and talked at length about sexual exploits. In one excerpt, Hughes is quoted as saying he purposely leaked facts about an alleged $400,000 payment made to the Vice-President Richard M. Nixon in the hopes of getting help for his problems with Trans World Airlines.

"Nobody was raising a hand to help me," Hughes is said to have complained. "They were glad. I'm talking about Washington. They were glad to see me in trouble. So I leaked the details to Drew Pearson."

Pearson, the late columnist, wrote an article during the 1960 presidential campaign, in which Nixon was a candidate, that the Hughes Tool Co. had loaned $205,000 to his brother, F. Donald Nixon. Nixon lost the election to John F. Kennedy.

In other excerpts, Hughes allegedly called former aide Robert Maheu a "very, very, calculating man" and said singer-actor Frank Sinatra "was just taking advantage of my prestige to bolster his waning prestige."

Maheu managed Hughes' enterprises in Nevada for four years until his dismissal in 1970. Sinatra had financial interests in two Nevada casinos until the state took away his gambling licence.

ST. JOHN'S, Que. (CP) — More than 20 people were injured early today, one critically, when a fire destroyed the Hotel St. Jean and an adjacent building in the downtown area of this town, about 20 miles south of Montreal.

The fire, which began shortly after 3 a.m., raged through the four-storey structure before it was brought under control at about 7:30 a.m.

The neighboring building was destroyed when it caught fire after one of the hotel walls collapsed on it.

More than 20 people were taken to hospital suffering from slight injuries.

STOCKS GAIN

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices showed some gains in active trading today. The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was up 1.65 to 904.90.

NAMES IN THE NEWS

Lynch Assails Dublin Violence

Prime Minister Jack Lynch charged Thursday that men seeking to overthrow the Irish Republic's institutions led the crowd that burned down the British Embassy here. He promised tough measures to preserve the authority of his government. He described the assault that destroyed the embassy Wednesday night as "the action of a small minority of men who, under the cloak of patriotism, seek to overthrow the institutions of the state."

Ladysmith police said Thursday they are investigating what they said appears to be an attempted murder and suicide. They said Stephen McDonald, 28, was killed by gunshot and Susan Ralph, 20, was in good condition in hospital with a gunshot wound to the jaw.

Prime Minister Trudeau said in Vancouver Thursday night he doesn't expect to intercede in any way to persuade Roman Catholics to call off further alleged marches in Northern Ireland. Mr. Trudeau was commenting on reports from London that the British cabinet would welcome intervention by world leaders to help ease tensions in the strife-torn country.

A dissident in the air traffic controllers union said Thursday in Ottawa his association has agreed to submit a strike-ending arbitration proposal to the membership for ratification. Harry Thibault of Ottawa said the national executive of the association has agreed to a secret ballot on or before Feb. 10.

Attorney-General Roy Romanow says in Regina he has sent a telegram to the federal government urging immediate consideration of a third rail route to overcome future rock-slide problems in the Fraser Canyon area of British Columbia.

Social Credit M.L.A. Arnes Kripps suggests in Victoria that Canada's next governor-general might well be chosen from the ranks of the nation's ethnic minorities, and that women also should be considered. To date, she told the legislature Wednesday, "one-third of Canadian citizens that are neither French nor English" have been bypassed in selection of candidates for the vice-regal office.

JACK LYNCH
... state threatened

Patrick Mahoney, newly-appointed minister of state, has been assigned to work on a continuing review of tax policy with Finance Minister John Turner, the prime minister's office in Ottawa said Thursday. Also announced was a mini-shuffle of parliamentary secretaries following last Friday's cabinet shuffle. Parliamentary secretaries are MPs assigned to assist individual ministers and on occasion speak for them in the Commons.

Toronto jewelry dealer Joseph Schiff lost $25,000 in diamonds to a car prowler Wednesday in Vancouver.

Frank Turner, whose career in the news business spanned the years between Morse code and computerized tape, died Thursday night in Vancouver.

He was 84. Born in Aberdeen, S.D., he started his 34-year career with the St. Paul Dispatch where he founded a telegraph key and doubled as a reporter.

A $140,000 damage suit against a kelp company and two of its officers was adjourned Thursday in British Columbia Supreme Court. Dr. Arthur MacDonald, a veterinarian, is suing Canada Kelp Co. Ltd., Donald E. Bennett and Harold R. Hine for return of $140,000 invested in the project in 1968 and 1969 on allegations of misrepresentation. The firm was created to harvest and process kelp in the Queen Charlotte Islands.

A Liberal member of the British Columbia legislature asked the provincial government Thursday to set up a $100 million perpetual fund for the preservation of farmlands in the province. Allan Williams (L-West Vancouver - Howe Sound) said this fund should be known as the agricultural lands fund and used to restore existing agricultural lands, preserve endangered farm lands and restore those that have already been lost.

Phil Boname, general manager of the British Columbia region of Marathon Realty Ltd., the real estate arm of CP Rail, said Wednesday that construction of a third crossing of Burrard Inlet for private vehicles would be a costly mistake. He said such a crossing, linking Vancouver with the cities of North and West Vancouver, would force a freeway system and would be bad for business downtown.

Prime Minister Sheikh Mujibur Rahman announced today that Bangladesh will seek membership in the Commonwealth. Britain gave diplomatic recognition to the new state today.

John James Dunning, 34, of Kamloops was found guilty Thursday on a reduced charge of wounding with intent arising from an Oct. 6 shooting. He was originally charged in Kamloops with attempted murder in the shooting which left Larry Elger wounded in both legs. Dunning was also convicted on a charge of possession of a weapon for a purpose dangerous to the public peace. He will be sentenced next week.

Fire Chief George Whitehouse of Matsqui has been charged in Sumas with criminal negligence following a fatal accident last month which occurred while the chief was enroute to a fire. The charge was laid by Sumas RCMP and Chief Whitehouse is to appear in provincial court Feb. 10.

A charge of dangerous use of firearms was laid Thursday in Vancouver against service station attendant Dan MacQueen as a result of a skirmish with a would-be robber. MacQueen admits firing at a fleeing attacker who came at him with a knife during the overnight shift Sunday at the service station, in suburban Surrey.

Herb Capozzi (SC-Vancouver-Centre) in Victoria urged Premier W. A. C. Bennett to scrap plans for a government skyscraper in downtown Vancouver and give the people a landscaped square instead. He said such a square would save the province $40 million and "would be a better tribute than anything you could build in that space." Mr. Bennett smiled during Mr. Capozzi's speech and when approached later in the corridor by the M.L.A., the premier laughed and walked on.

The owner of the underground newspaper, Georgia Straight, prepared to move back into his Vancouver offices today in the wake of a court order ousting rebellious employees who had taken over the premises. Seventeen staffers, all but one of them unpaid freelancers, took over the offices Jan. 19 after owner-publisher Dan McLeod refused their demands for cooperative ownership of the 10-page weekly. The rebels published two editions of the paper—one named the Georgia Grape and the other simply The Grape—while Mr. McLeod and 28 loyal staffers put out the original from a private house.

Former judge Thomas Dohm, new president of the Vancouver Stock Exchange, says one of his main jobs will be to improve regulation of securities offered on the exchange.

Mrs. Humphrey S. M. Carver, 57, of Ottawa has been appointed to the Canadian transport commission, the first woman ever named to the post in Ottawa.

Director of Corrections Selwyn Boeksbrough Smith has reported a sharp increase in the number of prisoners on probation in British Columbia has placed a heavy strain on probation staff. Mr. Smith, in his annual report tabled in the legislature, regretted that the strain has caused some B.C. probation officers to go to the national parole board where salaries are higher and the workload smaller.

Nail Polish 'De-Fused'

VANCOUVER (CP) — The manufacturer of Cuts nail polish remover announced Thursday it is changing the solvent's formula to prevent its use as an intoxicant by children.

Donald Houston, president of Chesbrough - Ponds (Canada) Ltd., said in a telephone interview from Markham, Ont., that the new formula will reduce the solvent's toxicity by more than 50 per cent and will also contain a new substance to make the remover extremely unpleasant to inhale.

The announcement came one day after Agnes Kripps, the Social Credit member for Vancouver South, told the British Columbia legislature that sniffling of the product has reached "almost epidemic proportions" in parts of B.C. She called for a province-wide boycott of Chesbrough-Ponds products.

Mr. Houston said he and two other company executives will fly here Sunday night for talks with Attorney-General Leslie Peterson and the Narcotic Addiction Foundation of B.C.

"We have reduced the toxicity level better than 50 per cent," said Mr. Houston.

"And we have made a special additive which is not harmful, but which causes severe burning sensations in the throat and lungs."

David Quayle, product manager for Chesbrough - Ponds, said the sniffling problem has occurred across Canada and that the company has been working on a new formula for two years.

Guard Dog Shot Dead

OKANAGAN FALLS (CP)—A $300 reward has been offered for information leading to the conviction of persons who shot two guard dogs during service stations break-ins in the area last week. One dog was killed and the other wounded in the neck. Total loot in the break-ins was $32, eight cartons of cigarettes and a wrench.

NEW FERRY PLANNED

NANAIMO (CP)—Tenders are to be called for construction of a new ferry to serve between Nanaimo and Gabriola Island. The new vessel will be able to carry 30 cars and 200 passengers. The MV Westwood, presently serving the route, can handle 16 cars and 150 passengers.

URGENT DAM START

REVELSTOKE (CP) — City council has approved a resolution urging the provincial government to make an early start on construction of the proposed Downie Creek and Revelstoke Canyon dams. The resolution says work on the dams will provide employment for men to be laid off when the Mica Dam, north of Revelstoke, is completed.

PAIR GUILTY

VANCOUVER (CP) — Guillon Ross, 23, and David O'Brien Brothie, 22, were convicted Thursday on a charge of wounding after a man's throat was cut in a beer parlor fight in December. They were arrested after John Moses Fabian, 35, was found staggering along a downtown street with blood pouring from a neck wound. He recovered after hospital treatment.

PROJECTS APPROVED

VANCOUVER (CP)—Canada Manpower has approved 12 local initiative projects for the Greater Vancouver area involving the expenditure of almost $275,000. A total of 130 jobs will be created. More than $50,000 goes to the Vancouver Free medical service for young people. Needy Persons Household Aid will receive $33,450 to improve living conditions for the aged and handicapped.

Another amendment extends the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court to include cases involving disputes over ownership of property within a family. Another amendment increases the number of Appeal Court judges to nine from eight.

Kosygin Demonstrators 'Only Suffered Bruises'

TORONTO (CP) — Demonstrators at a rally to protest Soviet Premier Alexei Kosygin's visit to Toronto suffered only bruises when police horses stepped on them, medical evidence showed Thursday.

Hospital records were introduced during an inquiry into events at the Ontario Science Centre Oct. 25 when mounted Metropolitan Toronto policemen were brought in after a bulge was pushed into police lines between the demonstrators and the centre where Premier Kosygin was dining as a guest of the Canadian Manufacturers Association.

X-rays of Vera Landins, who said she was trampled by three horses, and her husband, who said he was beaten when he tried to protect her, revealed no broken bones. Christine Romanchuk, who said a horse stepped on her leg, was bruised.

INJURIES MINOR

Medical evidence showed only minor injuries to two sisters who were also hurt in the incident. They have not yet appeared at the inquiry.

Thursday was the ninth day of the inquiry. There have been about 230 typewritten pages of testimony, a day, court reporters say.

Earlier Thursday, Jack Klaidun said he saw blood showering from one man's face and a friend dragged away by his hair to the police line.

And a geography teacher testified he heard a mounted policeman shouting "DP bastards; you'll get yours," as he swung his riding crop at a man and a woman crouched below a spruce tree.

The teacher, Michael Wawryshyn, said the couple seemed to escape the blows. At one point he said, a man stopped to aid a woman who had fallen as she ran from the police and a mounted Metro policeman "whacked" the man four or five times.

NOTES CONFLICT

Noting the continuing conflict between testimony by reporters and photographers who covered the incident and members of the Ukrainian community, Roy McMurtry, counsel for Metro police, told the teacher "either you or they are deliberately trying to misrepresent the facts."

Mr. Wawryshyn conceded that the police horses moved slowly and didn't gallop through the front lines of the crowd when they made their first pass at the group.

Mr. McMurtry accused the witness of a propensity to exaggerate things under oath but Mr. Wawryshyn said he didn't think he was.

Nicholas Dorsko, an associate professor of mathematics at the University of Toronto, said the horses occasionally ran but changed direction as they moved through the crowd and singled out different individuals to give chase.

Ald. William Boychuk asked for special permission to testify but when he was finished the judge told him his testimony would be ignored.

TODAY'S STOCK QUOTATIONS

SKATING ON THIN ICE

Oblivious to possible dangers, these children play hockey on the ice-covered surface of Okanagan Lake, watched by two other children and a dog. Fortunately the hockey players are near the shore, or they might be in difficulties if the ice broke. City and police officials have warned the ice is not strong enough to support people walking on it. A small boy who fell through ice this week on a Fraser Valley lake owes his life to the trained nose of a police dog.—(Courier photo).

R. H. Kunzli Is New Head Of Local C.A.R.S. Branch

R. H. Kunzli was elected president of the local branch of the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society at its annual meeting Thursday. Mr. Kunzli succeeds E. R. Winter in the post.

Succeeding Mr. Kunzli in the vice-presidency post was James Burbridge, with Robert Wilkie taking over the treasury duties from R. S. Young and Mrs. H. L. Smiley becoming the new secretary from Mrs. Gijbertus Klarenbeek.

Directors elected were Mrs. R. L. Blair, Mrs. James Burbridge, Kenneth Chaplin, Mr. and Mrs. Gijbertus Klarenbeek, Floyd Elstrom, Mrs. D. A. Hindle, Miss Juliet Hocken, Mrs. R. H. Kunzli, C. B. Lavery, David Morrison, Mrs. Phillip Robinson, Miss Christine Sinclair, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stringer, Mrs. E. R. Winter, and R. S. Young.

In his president's report, Mr.

Winter lauded the assistance of new president, Mr. Kunzli, alluding to his election as director of the provincial board at the principal conference in Vancouver in March, and his service as regional director for the Okanagan for the provincial body.

The speaker stated the local group had been successful in reaching its Community Chest goal in October, "thanks to members and friends who canvassed and those who contributed so generously." Mr. Winter also lauded the local society's Women's Auxiliary, and particularly to Mr. and Mrs. Burbridge, whom he said "always do so much more than is asked of them." Included in his praise also were Mr. and Mrs. Klarenbeek.

Mr. Winter also touched on the loss of Mrs. T. F. McWilliams last year, adding he was "fortunate in having an excellent board of directors and medical advisory board."

"We hope it will not be long before a cure is found for arthritis," he added. "Until then, early diagnosis and treatment and research is still the answer," he emphasized.

Chamber Seeks Improved Air Service

Kelowna Chamber of Commerce directors Thursday moved to question Pacific Western Airlines on what is proposed to improve spring and summer service from Kelowna Airport.

President D. A. Chapman said "there is no reason we shouldn't push them for fair and adequate service," in answer to a suggestion the chamber hasn't always had too much satisfaction in its complaints about air service here.

Problems arose in the heat of last summer when the passenger capacity of aircraft was diminished and some were often left on standby.

Mr. Chapman also said there have been complaints of being unable to reach the airline by telephone in Kelowna when the staff is busy during flight periods.

"This is just one of many items of complaint," said director Lawrence Saloum and he suggested if chamber representations continue to be unsuccessful "we can go to (higher authorities)."

SEEN and HEARD

Must Consider Tourist Season Department Urged

The Kelowna Chamber of Commerce will ask the provincial highways department to consider the tourist season in any plans it has for Highway 97 road construction.

Director Roger Cottle referred to a year old announcement of plans for a four lane highway east of Kelowna from Reid's Corner to Winfield and the evidence of survey crews on the highway east of Kelowna.

He said, "I hope any plans they have in getting started, that they consider the heavy traffic season and the inconvenience which could be caused."

Chamber officials agreed and a recommendation will be sent out.

Meanwhile, director Basil Melke told the board the traffic control signal on Highway 97 at Cooper Road is flashing only on a temporary basis.

He said he was informed by the department that there is extensive electrical work to be done in conjunction with the completion of Cooper Road before it will be used as a full stop signal.

Directors expressed the hope there would be a left turn provision made when the signal process is in operation.

Motorcycle Course Here

Motorcycle fans and would-be devotees of the two-wheeled sport will have a chance to learn the fundamentals from the ground up this summer.

A three-course motorcycle training program by the British Columbia Safety Council, under the auspices of the Kelowna and District Safety Council, will be available in Kelowna in May and July as part of a five city tour of the province following a successful program in Vancouver last year. This is the first time the seasons have been introduced to the Interior.

Equipped with three vans, 10 instructors and eight or nine "bikes" the program, under Garry Walton, assistant traffic section, of the BCSC, will offer Basic, Off-Road and Highway courses for both male and female participants.

The program will be launched in Kelowna May 22 to 28 with a basic course at Kelowna

Greg Athans of Kelowna, who won a gold medal in skiing during the Canada Winter Games last winter in Saskatoon, is ranked in the top 10 in Pontiac Cup competitions according to their latest standings. Athans, with 15 points this season, is in a four-way tie for fifth place. Athans is 30 points behind the co-leader. The Pontiac Cup standings are based on regular competitions in both Western and Eastern Canada.

Maybe lured by tales of the sunny Okanagan two visitors from warmer climes were spotted in Kelowna today. According to the licence plates on their cars, one is from Texas and the other Hawaii.

The weatherman played havoc with Okanagan Lake bridge early today, delaying traffic for about an hour from 7:10 to 8:10 a.m. A bridge official said vibration broke a wire in the bridge tower, preventing the span from lowering to normal position following elevation for lake traffic. Vehicular traffic has been periodically delayed due to thick ice impeding progress of barges and keeping the span up longer than usual.

Study 'Premature' Says Mayor Roth

The Regional District of Central Okanagan will press the Okanagan Basin Water Board to be the vehicle to study the feasibility and develop methods for effective removal of all outfalls in the Okanagan Lake system, as well as some method of financing same.

The board approved the motion at its regular meeting this week following lengthy discussion on the contentious subject.

Mayor Hilbert Roth, city representative on the board, felt the resolution was "premature" in light of the current $2 million Okanagan Basin Water Study being conducted by provincial and federal governments in the Valley. He advocated delay of the basin board study since the government's study might suggest some form of financing.

TREMENDOUS COST

"We're looking at tremendous cost," he said, adding he personally felt the best solution to the outfall problem was their removal. However, he suggested the board wait for results of the government study.

Board chairman, W. C. Bennett disagreed with the view, adding he felt the basin board should be engaged in locating outfalls. Mayor Roth reminded the city had initiated such a study through Dr. D. A. Clarge, South Okanagan Health Unit director, and reiterated his feeling the outfall resolution was "jumping the gun," since there were capable people engaged in the government study.

Emin Lamont, in support of the resolution, suggested the board support the motion and start a "philosophy" for the Valley. Peachland Mayor, Harold Thwait, recommended the regional district ask the basin board "stress" the government study group that outfalls be included in their study.

James Stuart said "no one in their right mind" is opposed to removal of outfalls, but suggested some emphasis be placed on financing the study. The original resolution was later amended to include that stipulation.

B.C. Tree Fruit Manager Reports On Japanese Trip

Ian F. Greenwood, general manager of B.C. Tree Fruits and Sun-Rype Products Ltd., has returned from a ministerial economic mission to Japan, with optimism. The mission, comprising some 60 government and industrial officials have hopes that they may open the trade doors to Japan for more Canadian processed products. Currently 97 per cent of "Canada to Japan" trade is in the form of raw materials.

Mr. Greenwood represented the Canadian apple industry, seeking ways and means of selling apples and cherries to Japan. Mr. Greenwood, accompanied by Bruce Howard, MP for the South Okanagan, had a number of meetings with senior personnel of the Japanese Fruit Growers' Association, fruit and vegetable exporters' association, trading companies and fruit importers, to discuss Canadian fruit.

The brightest note came with Mr. Greenwood's impression that the "B.C." cherry market stands a good chance with sales to Japan. He feels the "B.C." cherries are a better quality than their own which are only available for general weeks, and would be arriving when fresh fruit on the Japanese market was low. He was told that labor costs involved with Japanese cherries was high and as a result cherry production on the decline.

Apples are a slightly different story. He found the Japanese produce a very large, sweet, good quality apple and the Japanese officials feel the Canadian apple may not be sweet enough for the consumer of Japan. The Japanese also grow twice the amount of apples that Canada does. On a more optimistic note he mentioned the importation of oranges and grapefruit to Japan, starting a trend of importing of fresh fruits.

Any fresh fruit sales from Canada to Japan still hinges on the ability of Canadian government officials being able to overcome the coding moth problem and satisfying the Japanese scientists of coding moth free fruit.

NELSON, B.C. (CP) — Eric Balle abandoned his truck during a snowfall here recently when he considered driving conditions to dangerous. Minutes later he was in an ambulance on his way to hospital after slipping on a patch of ice and breaking his ankle.

Board Will Ask Victoria To Rent Unit-$40 An Hour

Okanagan Basin Water Board directors Thursday decided to ask the provincial government to rent a mechanical harvester to eliminate the growing aquatic weed problem on Okanagan Lake.

In a detailed report to directors, board secretary-manager William Parchomchuk said the invasion of aquatic weeds in the northeast bay of Okanagan Lake has made a public beach useless for recreation purposes and only one beach, about 1,000 feet long, remains useful in the entire North Okanagan.

This, he said, could have a marked effect on the ability of the area to attract summer visitors.

Studies by the water board's technical planning committee, said Mr. Parchomchuk, have indicated that mechanical harvesting or dredging provide a better solution to the problem than do chemical, biological or physical means.

EXPLAINS OPERATION
John Booth, a representative from a company which handles distribution of a mechanical harvesting system, explained the operation, utilizing a short film showing the machinery in action on a weed-infested lake. Consisting of a harvester, a transporter and a shore conveyor, the system can clean up a body of water to a depth of five feet at a rate of about one acre an hour.

With all three units included, the package has a $49,000 price tag individually, the harvester costs $26,000, the transporter $16,500 and the shore conveyor $6,250.

Mr. Booth said the system has been used near Calgary and at Olympia, Washington. It rents for $40 an hour or $60 per acre. He added the nutritional value of the weeds harvested could be utilized in the form of fertilizer.

ENDORSES IDEA
Fred Alcock, Kelowna public health inspector, present at the meeting, endorsed the idea and said that although the weeds found locally are slightly different from the Vernon variety, the problem they pose is getting more serious.

In recommending the harvesting method, Mr. Parchomchuk said, "Since the weed growth occurs on foreshore lands under provincial jurisdiction and since initiation of control techniques will be primarily research-oriented, it is recommended that the provincial government under-take pilot studies in the field to remove aquatic weeds."

"A harvesting program could be initiated immediately," Board director W. C. Bennett went a step further. "I move that the Okanagan Basin Water Board approach the provincial government and get them to rent one of the machines and clean up the problem."

"I think it's the government's responsibility." The motion was carried unanimously.

Enderby Man New Chairman

Len Bawtree, of Enderby, was elected Thursday as chairman of the 1972 edition of the Okanagan Basin Water Board. He replaces W. C. Bennett, who has held the post for the past two years.

Mr. Bawtree, also chairman of the North Okanagan Hospital Board and vice-chairman of the North Okanagan Regional District's board of directors, has served on the water board since the North Okanagan sought representation several years ago.

He is woods manager for Riverside Sawmills, of Enderby, and is also actively engaged in dairy farming.

FOR TWO YEARS
In accepting the two-year post, Mr. Bawtree briefly addressed the board, saying, "It will be a hard act to follow after the fine job Wally Bennett and Doug Stuart have done in the chair."

"It's my hope that during 1972 we can work more closely with the three regional districts and start to correct some of the serious water problems facing us."

"A gratifying experience" was how Mr. Bennett described his two-year tenure in his annual report to the board.

He briefly outlined the wide variety of business dealt with during the past year, including public involvement, requests for studies, inventories of waste discharges, pollution control permits, the new Water Resources Act, report reviews, water quality of Wood Lake and the growth of aquatic weeds.

He expressed appreciation to water board directors for their support and acknowledged the advice offered to the board by ex-mayors William Halina, of Vernon, and Doug Stuart, of Penticton.

In addition, Mr. Bennett thanked MLA Pat Jordan, members of the B.C. Water Resources staff and the board's technical committee for their assistance and co-operation.

Also at Thursday's meeting, a number of council-appointed representatives were named as observers of goings-on at water board meetings.

Mayor Hilbert Roth and N. J. Dick, P. Eng., were appointed, with Ald. Alan Moss as an alternate. From Vernon will come Mayor Stuart Fleming, from Peachland, Ivor Jackson and from the village of Oliver, R. W. Sturgess.

Former City Bank Manager F. J. Willis Moves To Coast

Long-time Kelowna resident, Frederick Joseph Willis, 1946 Pandosy St., has moved to Vancouver.

A former manager of the Royal Bank in Kelowna, Mr. Willis was born in Lombardy, northern Ontario, and entered the employ of the Union Bank which later became part of the Royal Bank Sept. 1, 1925. He joined the bank Sept. 20, 1904 at Lumsden, Sask., and became manager at Watrous, Sask., March 22, 1913.

Mr. Willis moved to Swift Current March 13, 1910, and became bank inspector for the Saskatchewan district in June, 1920. In February, 1924, he went to Saskatoon as manager, remaining there until coming to Kelowna in 1930. He retired in June, 1945, and was succeeded by J. K. Campbell.

He has served as director of the Kelowna General Hospital, a member of the Canadian Club and the Kelowna Curling Club and was director of the Kelowna Board of Trade before it became known as the chamber of commerce.

Mr. Willis married Marcia Annie Morrow at Lumsden, Sask., on Oct. 25, 1911. She died in 1970. A sister, Mrs. Roland Michener, is the wife of the governor-general of Canada.

FILING TIPS

You And Your Taxes

Having problems with those irritating income tax forms? The Courier will attempt to answer some of your most asked questions through the Penticton branch of the National Revenue through this series of articles.

The following tax tips deal with income problems.

Question—I have not received a T4 slip from one of my employers. Should I file my tax return without it?

Answer—It is your responsibility to file your income tax return on or before April 30 each year. However, before filing your return without a necessary information slip you should make every endeavor to obtain it. Ask your employer for a T4 slip. If you do not receive a reply before the deadline for filing, then in order to avoid being penalized for filing late, send your return with the income and deductions from this employer estimated. Do not leave this income out when calculating your total income, and attach a note to your return explaining

Words Fail Bernadette In House Of Commons

The girl once dubbed Northern Ireland's Joan of Arc has lost much of her remaining glamor in a wildcat House of Commons scuffle after removed from her early impact there.

Few freshman MPs have swept into Westminster with the appeal of Bernadette Devlin, one of six children of a County Tyrone carpenter. Raised in poverty and a bright university student, she was elected Independent MP for Mid-Ulster at the age of 21 on a passionate civil rights platform—the youngest woman ever to reach Parliament in London.

Self-schooled in the rousing words of Irish republican heroes, she took the Commons by storm with a maiden speech of such eloquence that members said nothing like it had been heard this century. Overnight she became the star of British politics.

That was less than three years ago. Her eloquence was quickly spent. She hammered continuously on the theme of Ulster Roman Catholic grievances, but the fire was lost amid class-war tirades.

Words finally failed her this week in the Commons.

Enraged by her inability to get a word in, the psychology graduate tore into Home Secretary Reginald Maudling with fists and fingernails.

Afterwards she said she was sorry she didn't go for his throat. Referring to the 13 Londonderry Catholics shot dead by British troops Sunday, she said each wing of the Irish Republican Army had vowed to kill 13 soldiers in revenge—"that is 26 coffins coming back to England and I won't shed a tear over any single one of them."

It all seemed a long, long way from the days when former Labor foreign secretary George Brown said she was so nice he could not resent her diatribes, and when a baronet wrote to The Daily Mail to say he hoped Bernadette would eventually become "mother of the House."

Now the tabloids are calling her "Wildcat" and "Basher Bernadette." Political observers were writing her off as a serious influence. Walter Terry, political editor of The Daily Mail, said her display of violence was "about all she's got left as an argument."

"She has become rather sad and twisted and the tragedy is it could have been so much better," wrote Terry. He said she is a particular disappointment to the civil rights workers in Ulster who had seen her as the supreme campaigner with access to the seat of power.

Undoubtedly, Bernadette had such a buildup from press and public that it would have been hard for anyone to live up to.

In her autobiography, The Price of My Soul, she compares herself with Michael Collins, the assassinated Irish nationalist leader of the 1920s whom she describes as "aggressive, bullying... totally undiplomatic... an arrogant personality."

Bernadette has never been far from the headlines in her three years at Westminster. A fund-raising tour of the United States ended in a row about what she did with the money. She was jailed for joining a stone-throwing crowd on the Derry barricades. Last year she gave birth to a baby girl, refusing to name the father.

As she wryly admits in her book: "I haven't done miracles, freed the people, produced civil rights or lived up to the image of St. Bernadette."

Less Turbulent Course

(Victoria Colonist)

Instead of attempting to buck the full tide, the Toronto psychiatrist who advocates more jailing of misde-meaning youth might make better headway if he skirted the open channel for a less turbulent course. The soft approach to juvenile delinquency has far more advocates than the get-tough policies that Dr. Ronald Stokes would institute.

But there are far too many repeaters on court dockets still which apparently prompted the head of the Clark Institute of Psychiatry to some blunt speech. In a recent address to a conference on correction services in Ontario he complained that judges too often showed a reluctance to send an under-16 offender to training school even though he might be what the psychiatrist termed "out of control."

The feeling is, said Stokes, that the young law-breaker is being put into a jail setting where he would be under the influence of hardened criminals. But, "my argument is that by the time he has reached that point, isn't he one himself?"

He also called for tough adult jails to change prisoners' behavior by making them think about how they got themselves into trouble. The same thing should apply to the young offenders and an experiment along this line that is under way in Britain would seem to be worth studying.

Two "attendance centres" are in operation at Manchester and Greenwich for 17-to-20-year-old law breakers who report to them for specified periods of time each week as a final warning before imprisonment. Magistrates can order them to attend for up to 12 weeks in two-hour sittings. At the centres they are put to work on such things as floor scrubbing (on their knees) and are given a vigorous physical fitness course. One of the centres is staffed by local policemen and the other by a volunteer team of prison officers who, The London Observer reports, are convinced of the value of the plan.

"It gives them a taste of discipline without institutionalizing them," one officer pointed out in the report, adding: "Unlike a fine, which may be paid by mum and dad, this punishment is certain to hit them personally."

Some of the "attenders" interviewed were less certain. They agreed that while actually attending the centre they have it clearly in mind to keep out of trouble, but the observation was made: "You don't think before you get into trouble, do you? It just happens."

While, in its present form, the attendance centre plan may be only effective in reinforcing the shock which many of the young people feel when they go before the court and make contact with the machinery of punishment, perhaps it could be expanded to include discussion groups where there could be self-analysis in the seeking of solutions to personal problems. London magistrates feel the need for such extension of the project, and it most certainly would win favor with social workers in this country who oppose early jailing as a cure to delinquency.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

VIEWS BACKED

In answer to Tom Cumming's letter regarding Mr. Shilvock's letter of Jan. 12, I have to go on record as supporting Mr. Shilvock's views regarding the Liberal party.

I have no personal axe to grind, but I don't know what Mr. Cumming means when he says the long period of Conservative administration. As I recall it was very short as both parties were bickering and slinging mud and wouldn't let the party rule. The Conservatives dissolved Parliament and called for an election, in which they were defeated by the Liberals.

What has happened since is a very sorry tale and all those who are on pension have paid dearly since. It took the Liberals almost three years to decide on a flag under Pearson. He also was the instigator of the 30 per cent increase in wages to the dock workers which set off a spiral of union demands that has caused strikes and unrest in the unions ever since.

Seems that nothing short of 30 per cent now is the first demand by the unions. Then to make it worse the salaries of all members of parliament were increased.

Now when the Just Society of the Trudeau clan took over I'd like to ask what is just about it? They increased the members' salaries out of all proportion and then they cry for the unions to cut their demands. How naive can they get?

All during this time the pensioner has been left on the bottom rung of the ladder. Who cares about him; the Just Society? The unions? No, he is left out in the cold.

Then the Just Society says keep out of the bedrooms of the taxpayers, they didn't say anything about the Just Society bunch keeping their hands out of the pockets of the taxpayers.

Imagine just wasting three years to cut the income tax a few cents for those on the bottom rung of the ladder and hundreds of dollars to the rich.

The old saying the rich get richer and the poor get poorer still holds with the Just Society. No wonder we are all disenchanted with the present administration.

I say three cheers to Mr. Shilvock and many others who support him. I used to vote Liberal but not anymore. I'm most disenchanted with the way things are going in our beloved Canada.

CANADA'S STORY

Champlain Wanted Permanent Settlers

By BOB BOWMAN

There was an important difference in the early settlement of the United States and Canada. The people from England who formed the colonies on the Atlantic Coast of the U.S. went there to stay. They wanted freedom and had no intention of returning to their homeland. They built solid communities which grew rapidly.

On the other hand, the French who came to Canada wanted, for the most part, to make money in the fur trade, and then return to France. That was one of the reasons why Canada developed more slowly. Historians estimate that only 10,000 people from France actually remained in Canada.

Champlain was an exception. Although he was a great explorer who opened up territory for the fur trade, Champlain worked hard to establish permanent communities. He allocated the land for settlers in the Quebec area and insisted on required formalities so they were solemnly aware of their important places in the communities.

One of the most valuable of the early settlers established by Champlain was the first doctor in Canada, Louis Hebert, who was given a seigniorie Feb. 4, 1623. Hebert had already served in Acadia from 1604 to 1613 because he wanted to get away from the intrigues of the royal court in Paris. His father had been physician to Catherine of Medici when she was haunted by ghosts after instigating the massacre of St. Bartholomew.

Hebert arrived at Quebec in 1617, but the merchants made life difficult for him. They did not want to see people get into farming which was Hebert's hobby. He supported his family from the produce of the land and often gave food to the needy. The merchants tried to compel him to sell his annual harvest to them and paid him the lowest price.

Hebert's son-in-law, Guillaume Couillard, is believed to have been the first man in Canada to use a plow drawn by oxen in 1628, the year following Hebert's death.

OTHER FEB. 4 EVENTS:

1667—First ball ever held in Canada was at Quebec.

1783—Patriotism stamped in American Revolutionary War.

1793—L.A. Gov. Simcoe began tour of Upper Canada.

1826—First issue of La Minerva, Montreal paper.

1873—Winnipeg became a city.

1878—Manitoba abolished its Legislative Council.

1908—X-ray was demonstrated at McGill.

1934—Prime Minister St. Laurent began world tour.

Hughes A Storm Centre But He Treasures Privacy

Controversy and mystery have been consistent companions of billionaire industrialist Howard Hughes. But few things in his life have matched the bizarre events surrounding a book which purports to be his autobiography. This is the last of four articles on the world of Howard Hughes.

By JAMES NORMAN

NEW YORK (AP) — For a man who probably has been more serious than any other in his steadfast pursuit of seclusion, billionaire Howard Hughes has had a remarkable career as the centre of controversies.

Living behind an elaborate cloak of secrecy that only a fortune of some $2 billion could buy, Hughes became a watched-for and hunted man.

Nothing, it seemed, could bring him out of his hiding places—the Beverly Hills mansion where he spent his time with his former wife Jean Peters, the carefully guarded penthouse in the Desert Inn in Las Vegas and finally the ninth floor of the Britannia Beach Hotel in the Bahamas.

Hughes, now 66, dropped from sight in 1953 and hasn't been seen in public since.

He refused to show up in court when Trans World Airlines charged him with mismanagement while he was the firm's majority stockholder. The result: "best interests" of his client he was withdrawing from the case because he felt Irving at that stage needed a competent criminal lawyer.

BOUGHT NEVADA LAND

And wrapped in that secrecy, Hughes, in 1966 descended on Nevada and within four years—at which time he left in secrecy—had become the state's largest landowner and employer, around whom swirled a statewide debate.

Difficulties in firing Robert Maheu, the man Hughes had hired to run his $300-million Nevada empire, almost brought the billionaire out into the light. A voice identified as Hughes' spoke over the telephone with Nevada Gov. Paul Laxalt in 1970 to affirm the intention to sack Maheu.

But last Dec. 7, McGraw-Hill Book Co. announced it planned to publish the autobiography of the elusive billionaire. It was a publishing sensation. But once again, the Hughes penchant for privacy asserted itself.

First, the Hughes Tool Co., led by its general counsel Chester Davis, denied such a book could be possible. It set up a long distance telephone call to be from Hughes in the Bahamas to seven Los Angeles reporters. The man on the phone told the reporters he had never heard of Clifford Irving, the 41-year-old writer who claimed to have met Hughes for secret interviews as he collaborated on the work. The reporters agreed they had spoken with Hughes.

Irving, in New York to give the galley proofs of the book a final once-over, said he was prepared to show numerous documents with Hughes' handwriting, authenticated by experts.

There were two cheques, endorsed by an H. R. Hughes and deposited in a Swiss bank account. Additionally, there were handwritten letters to Irving, a letter dated from Hughes, and a nine-page letter to Harold McGraw, president of the publishing house.

The experts also vouched for the many handwritten notations in the margins of the transcript which Irving said he had typed from tape recorded interviews with Hughes.

Then, even more sensational things began to happen: McGraw-Hill announced it intended to hold up publication until certain questions pertaining to the Swiss bank account were answered.

Irving swore, in an explicitly detailed, 23-page affidavit, that he personally had handed two cheques totalling $325,000 to Hughes and had given another cheque for $325,000 to a Hughes aide. Then the writer took off for his home on the Mediterranean island of Ibiza, saying he did not plan to return to the United States until there was a valid reason for him to do so.

Word came from Switzerland that the H. R. Hughes who opened the Swiss Credit Bank account, was not a giant, 6-foot-3 Texan but a blonde in her 30s carrying a forged Swiss passport in the name of Helga R. Hughes. Later reports said the woman was a brunette.

Hoping to return to the quiet of his 300-year-old peasant house, Irving instead found himself besieged by reporters. Angered by suggestions that his lovely wife Edith, a Swiss painter, was the mysterious Helga, the writer threatened to sue anyone who implied that.

While bands of reporters camped in the Irving living room for nearly a week and Swiss authorities asked the Irvings to come to Zurich for an investigation of fraud, Hughes maintained his splendid isolation on an island in the Bahamas.

Irving returned to New York less than a week after he left, and with him came his wife. There were these further developments:

Irving disclosed through his lawyer that his wife had opened the Swiss account in the name of H. R. Hughes and had withdrawn the $650,000, placing it "substantially intact" in another Swiss account.

Irving's friend and attorney, Martin S. Ackerman, announced that in the "best interests" of his client he was withdrawing from the case because he felt Irving at that stage needed a competent criminal lawyer.

Irving's new attorney, Maurice Nessen, hustled the couple and their children out of their previous place of seclusion north of New York and into a new hideout.

SHADES OF JAMES BOND
If the events following that Dec. 7 announcement by McGraw-Hill appear confusing, the proliferating theories on what led up to it are positively James Bondian.

CAPITAL COMMENT

Just How Good Is Your MP?

By FARMER TISSINGTON

OTTAWA — How good is your member of Parliament? Leaving a partisan considerations aside, just how well do you think your federal representative performs, both in his riding and in Ottawa?

Thousands of Canadians will be considering this question in the coming months as the next general election draws near. If your present MP does not measure up to your expectations, you have a couple of choices. The obvious one is to vote for a candidate of another party. But if you want to support your MP's party, but not the MP himself, the problem is much tougher.

Only by getting together with other members of the party in your riding and supporting another man or woman at the nomination meeting, can this be done. And in Canadian politics it is a rare occurrence when an MP does not get his party's nomination as often as he chooses to seek it.

In my view, there are three general classifications of MPs. There is the MP who speaks frequently in the Commons, who is active in the daily question period, and who plays a leading role in committee and in his party caucus. He gets a lot of publicity, is frequently quoted and interviewed and, in short, becomes a national political figure. But the same man may be a poor riding representative. His drive for national fame may leave him scant time to attend to the daily mundane chores of looking after his constituents. He visits his riding infrequently and, when he does, makes little effort to meet with and talk to the average Joe.

Then there is the type of member who hardly ever speaks or asks questions, is never interviewed by the news media and rarely takes part in committee or caucus discussions. But this member is a good constituency man. He spends most of his time helping people in his riding with their problems involving the federal government—everything from pension applications, unemployment insurance claims, immigration problems, rush requests for passports, even trying to find a job for an out-of-work constituent.

He visits his riding often and usually has regular hours every week or two when people can meet him and talk over their problems or state their opinions. He reads the local papers carefully and keeps fully informed on what is going on in his riding, even to the extent of sending messages of congratulation on births, marriages and similar happy events. He knows a lot of people by their first name and is readily available to the average citizen.

BEST AND RAREST

The third classification—and it is not only the best, but the rarest—is the MP who somehow manages to combine the best of both of the above classifications. Not only does he take on special responsibilities for his party, acting perhaps as an opposition critic to a cabinet minister or heading up a caucus committee in some special field,

One scenario would have it exactly as Irving now says the whole thing happened: that he met with Howard Hughes at the times and locations specified in his affidavit, that he handed the cheques to Hughes on an aide, but that because of some whim on the part of the billionaire, he agreed to take them back and have his wife deposit them and then withdrew the money, putting it into another account.

On the other extreme is the scenario that makes Irving the hoaxer who invented the details of his meetings with Hughes and how he obtained an autobiographical material from him. Irving has selected this theory and has steadfastly maintained that the book is authentic.

Another proposed theory is that Irving was given a packet of material stolen from Hughes by a disgruntled former aide and that he ingeniously wove the document into an autobiography in an interview format.

Still, a not a possibility, outlined by Hughes Tool Co. public relations man Richard Hannah, is that a computerized readout indexing every item that has ever appeared in print about Hughes plus some notes by Hughes was given to Irving, who then used it as a roadmap in doing research for a plausible autobiography. Hannah suggested the possibility that Robert Maheu, whom Hughes had fired in Nevada, could have leaked the material to Irving.

DENIES LEAK

Maheu, central to a number of the theories, denies leaking the material to Irving. Saying he understood the book was a derogatory toward him, Maheu asks: "Does it make sense I'd leak it?"

Life magazine, which had contracted to publish excerpts of the book in three installments, speculated that authentic material might have been stolen and given to Irving by "a disloyal or greedy employee."

FOR LITTLE GIRLS

The nautical look is the biggest new trend in spring fashions for little girls. You'll see it in short and long dresses featuring sailor collars in navy or red middie braid and ties. It is found in everything from play dresses and pant outfits to party wear. Shown is the French school girl look. The identical print dresses have contrasting big square collars.

Women Are Now Comprising One Third Of Labor Force

For years, women have faced major obstacles when it came to the world of work. The few who escaped the "expected" female occupations such as teacher, nurse, librarian or secretary often found the going difficult. Some career areas were designated as "men only". In others the career ladder seemed to stop abruptly at the middle rung. Rare indeed was the woman who has reached the higher echelons of any organizations.

TIMES CHANGE

According to a recent release from the Public Service Commission of Canada, times are changing. In this era when women comprise more than a third of the labor force, society's traditional attitudes toward the working women are visibly eroding. The day may not be far off when the "full participation" of women in the world of work is commonplace.

In the Public Service of Canada, the country's largest employer of women, they are working toward that day. They have established an office of Equal Opportunity to plan, promote and co-ordinate programs to help ensure that all persons, regardless of sex, are considered on the basis of ability and initiative whatever the career area, whatever the echelon.

A number of women who are making careers for themselves in many different fields in governmental departments are cited as examples of women who have jobs that are for them, personally stimulating and challenging. They demonstrate that in the Public Service the chance does exist for a woman to explore her full potential in whatever field she may decide to direct her energies — quite simply, a work atmosphere which offers, "A chance to be yourself."

Gail Hanox, commodity officer in the department of trade and commerce is responsible for advising the Canadian giftware and handicraft industries. She is one of the few females working in this field, but since she was the only girl in her economics classes in university, nothing has changed, she says.

PRACTICAL SIDE

Since handicraft people tend not to be very businesslike, a person in this field needs to have a practical side. But it also helps to have an artistic interest, too. When she takes travelling displays of giftware and handicrafts to trade fairs, she not only promotes the crafts but sometimes help to set up the booths. Visiting places like Boston, New York and New Orleans can be exciting but she really enjoys the industrial tours more, where she can see all the various crafts, how they are made and participate in the business discussions.

The opportunities for computer programmers are fantastic, says Leslie Graham, of the computer systems program with the department of agriculture. There is rapid promotion and the average staying time in one position is about one and half years. It's easy to move up, she says. "They don't just talk about what I can do for them, but they talk about what they can do for me, I am encouraged to read and study and because of this, I have been taking courses ever since I began."

"There is still some prejudice against women but you can beat it—I've done it. As a woman I can get by on merit but I have to really work. On the other hand so do men. I work with everything from straight programming to developing new methods. My job is to make it easier for the statistician to analyse the results of various experiments conducted here. I like the interplay between the programming and the maths."

IN EUROPE

Before coming to Ottawa as a foreign service officer, Anita Szlaski studied and worked in Europe for four years. Her background in economics and her time in Europe left her with a strong interest in the area of international policy. After deciding she wanted to come back to Canada she joined the bureau of economic and scientific affairs, department of external affairs. She is responsible for much of the external affairs input into international civil aviation policy.

This involves co-ordination with other government departments and agencies, liaison with the airlines and representation of the department's interests both in Ottawa and abroad in bilateral air negotiations and at international conferences concerning civil aviation. Because the work is fast moving and varied, Anita keeps active and interested. Civil aviation, she says, is an exciting subject with tremendous political and financial implications for governments.

Judie Ulyatt, training officer with the department of health and welfare, helps people to expand their knowledge. It's part of her job to create an awareness and an enthusiasm to learn. This is accomplished in a variety of ways.

For example, Judie produced a system of 30 half hour video tapes aimed at orienting people to their new jobs in the department. As producer she scripts the tapes, and designs the visuals. But the audio visual side is just one aspect of her work. She also designs and implements orientation programs for new staff and old staff going into new positions.

An ambitious person who wants to keep on growing, she likes being sent regularly on courses and seminars which means that she is always improving her skills.

BUREAUCRACY

Carol Paumann of the Manpower Development offices of the treasury board realized that the public service is a bureaucracy and that like all bureaucracies could be frustrating. Although she found this to be true, she also found that it is simply a large organization which doesn't have to be that bad. It's only the people in it that make it so. "By being in personnel I felt that I could help change some of this and it became a very tangible goal for me."

Treasury board, where she works, is concerned with the division of resources within the government and because of this it's an important link between the political structure and the various departments.

Her job as organization and manpower development officer is really two-fold. One aspect is analysing the health of an organization. If it's not effective it's my job as part of a team to find out why. She is currently developing guidelines for employee appraisal which enables a manager to assess an employee's performance. Personnel, she says, is one of the easier fields for a woman to move ahead; there are many areas from which to choose an almost unlimited scope.

This sample of women involved in the Public Service of Canada is proof that equality of opportunity is no hollow slogan. As the country's largest employer of women, the Public Service is working to make the idea a reality.

ANN LANDERS

Fireman's Wife Tells It Like It Really Is

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 28-year-old mother of four. Today is Sunday and we are home alone. Where is my husband? He's on duty—a fire fighter.

We consider ourselves an average family and I would never consider asking my husband to change professions.

This is a man who loves his job. He works a relatively short week, 56 hours, compared with other husbands. But fire fighters are sometimes called on to work 24 hours at a time in case of a disaster. It is part of the job and I respect his obligations. Once my fire fighter worked seven days straight. He came home only twice to change clothes and get groceries. (Our men have to buy their own food when on duty.) Our baby was six months old at the time, and sick with pneumonia. Our other children were 5, 4 and 2.

There are times when I hear the sirens and my heart jumps because I know my fire fighter may be about to lay his life on the line. In a single day he saved a family and kept a fire from spreading to an entire block. Sometimes those alarms mean someone's fire-fighter husband is about to step into a trap set by a deranged mental case. It has happened.

The National Safety Commission says fire fighting is the most dangerous profession in the country—more dangerous than mining, longshore work or police service. In the back of my mind is the ever-present fear that one night a voice on the phone will say: "I'm sorry, he didn't make it this time." So, the next time you hear the wail of a fire engine, thank God that the men manning that rig are dedicated professionals who will give all they have to protect you and your loved ones. And say a little prayer for them, will you?—Mrs. Fire Fighter U.S.A.

Dear Mrs.: You bet I will. And thanks for making it possible for millions of Americans to see the picture through the eyes of a fire-fighter's wife.

Seminar's Topic Is Women's Lib

What's New About Women's Lib? Is the topic chosen by Christine Waddell, director of the women's bureau, department of labor, Vancouver, when she addresses a one-day seminar at Capri on Feb. 27.

The seminar, sponsored by the Kelowna Business and Professional Women's Club, starts at 10:30 a.m. and includes a luncheon and group discussions in the afternoon. The seminar is open to all interested women and that part of the report by the Royal Commission on the Status of Women relating to provincial legislation, will be highlighted during the afternoon discussions.

FROM WINNIPEG

Mrs. Waddell, who will be the feature speaker in the morning program started her working career with an owner-catering business in the YWCA at Winnipeg, where she was born and grew up.

Her varied career since that includes a stint with a department store in Toronto and service with the British Embassy in Washington during the war years.

Back to Toronto and marriage, she was engaged in private enterprise in an apartment house business.

Arriving in Vancouver in 1947 she re-entered the labor force, being employed with a catering company. Becoming a member of the negotiation committee of a union, she was elected recording secretary and business agent for the International Union. This paid position she held for 12 years.

During this time her duties included, processing grievances, presenting appeals for Workmen's Compensation; Unemployment Insurance and Labor Relations. She became a member of the Advisory Committee of the Department of Education on Training matters.

In 1965 she was the successful candidate in a competition for position of industrial relations officer; a position held by no other woman at the time.

In 1966 she was appointed director of the newly created women's bureau which was established by the provincial government within the department of labor, in recognition of the increasingly important role of women in the labor force.

During 1970 the total labor force in British Columbia increased from 836,200 to 878,000 and women from 270,000 to 286,000. From 1960 to 1970 the number of women in the labor force almost doubled.

In 1970 the bureau assisted men and women, clubs, employers, employees, union representatives, professional personnel and students with departmental pamphlets and material from the departmental library and by explaining statutory minimum wage and working condition requirements. Mrs. Waddell has fulfilled a number of speaking engagements and attended meetings and special hearings relating to labor, Human Rights, Food trades and others.

Interested women should contact the program convener, Mrs. Mary Greer by Feb. 20 to facilitate catering arrangements.

HITHER AND YON

Kelowna's Lady of the Lake, Wendy Nichols, has returned from a wonderful two weeks in London, England, where she visited Jocelyn Burch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Burch of Kelowna, with whom Wendy makes her home. The two girls enjoyed all the traditional sights in London, visited museums, cathedrals and Windsor Castle, Trafalgar Square and Piccadilly Circus. They also travelled to Mansfield by train to visit Jocelyn's aunt, Mrs. Muriel Webster. Wendy found the Londoners' flats and lack of central heating different. On her return she was met at Vancouver airport by her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Kerr and Patricia Burch.

Enjoying a week long visit here with her parents is Janyne Locke of Vancouver who has been a house guest with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Locke of Glenview Road.

Mrs. J. J. Blumer of Leon Avenue and her daughter Mrs. Paul Ponich of Hillcrest Street returned Wednesday night by plane from Regina, Sask., where they were called to attend the funeral of the former's brother-in-law, Gilbert Smith. While there they were guests with Mrs. Smith, sister and aunt of the two.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Sauve of Kelowna have returned from a three week holiday in Mexico. Although they encountered some poor driving conditions enroute they enjoyed the sunshine and sights when they arrived. They also made stopovers at Phoenix, Disneyland, Knoxberry Farm and others. Picking fresh lemons, oranges and grapefruit off the trees was a treat they took pleasure in which added to a perfect holiday.

Tonight's the big night for Kelowna's dancing crowd. The annual charity ball sponsored by the Kelowna Hospital Auxiliary which has been a tradition in this community for more than 50 years starts at 8 p.m. at Capri. Live talent, dancing and a smorgasbord at midnight make up the agenda for a gala evening out.

Kerr Exhibition Now On Display At Reg. Library

The Kelowna Art Exhibit Society is presenting 20 paintings by Illingworth H. Kerr from the Glenbow Art Circuit. The showing, now taking place in the Okanagan Regional Library, will continue to Feb. 19.

The exhibition includes vivid interpretation of our environment. His subject matter varies from landscapes and farms derived from musical and visual experiences.

Mr. Kerr was born in Lumsden, Sask., in 1905 and studied at the Central Technical School in Toronto, the Ontario College of Art and the Westminster School of Art, London, England. He also studied with members of the Group of Seven.

He was an instructor at the Vancouver School of Art in 1945-46 and from 1947 until his retirement in 1967 he was head of the art department of the Alberta College of Art. He was awarded a Canada Council Fellowship for study in the United States and England in 1960. He is a member of the Alberta Society of Artists.

He has illustrated such books as M. Campbell's 'The Nor' Westers' and Kerry Wood's 'Willowdale' and published an autobiographical novel 'G'ay Dogs and Dark Horses' in 1946.

Menopause Topic To Be Discussed At Lecture

Is there a male menopause, not physical but mental? Why does it affect some women more and some less? Is it true that many women begin to have weight problems at this time? What are the chances of becoming pregnant during menopause? What drugs are available and how can your family doctor help? How does taking the birth control pill affect menopause? When can you tell if your irritability is caused by the menopause? What can the family do and how can the woman help herself?

These are some of the questions which are expected at the lecture-discussion at Kelowna Secondary School on Monday, co-sponsored by the Kelowna Registered Nurses Association and the Adult Education Committee.

Written questions will be invited from the audience and husbands are especially welcome to attend the evening which starts at 8 p.m. in room W123.

Speakers on the program include, Dr. A. R. Roundhill, Dr. Barbara Massey, Ish Holmes, clinical psychologist and Dr. Derek Royle, gynecologist.

Program organizer is Mrs. Betty Warner, RN, and chairman of the evening will be Mrs. Elise Clarke, RN.

Have Suitcase Will Travel...

An exciting mystery-adventure series, starring Richard Bradford as a man named McGill, an unjustly discredited American intelligence agent, forced to pick up the threads of his shattered career and begin life again. Man in a Suitcase begins today at 10 p.m. on CHBC-TV, Kelowna. McGill earns his living the dangerous way, travelling around the world with nothing but a suitcase, a change of clothing... and a gun, working for anyone who will foot the bill.

DERREN NESBITT plays one of the leading roles in Dead Man's Shoes, in which a narcotics gang terrorises an English village. This is one chapter in the Man in a Suitcase Show.

U.S. Opera Visits Paris

PARIS (Reuter) — The first U.S. opera ever produced at the Paris Opera will be given a gala performance, Feb. 7 in the presence of French President George Pompidou, it was announced Wednesday.

The opera is South with music by Tennessee-born composer Kenton Coe from an original play by Paris-based American novelist Julian Green, who on the day of the gala will be officially received into the Academie Francaise—the first foreigner to be elected since it was founded over 330 years ago.

Danny Kaye Makes Profit

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Representatives of six U.S. corporations gave entertainer Danny Kaye a cheque for $135,569 Tuesday—payment for six million product wrappers and labels collected by volunteers for the UN Children's Fund. The money will be used for UNICEF rehabilitation work in the area of Peru struck by a massive earthquake in May 1970.

Dracula Protected

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Universal Pictures Co. is accountable to actor Bela Lugosi's heirs for profits from marketing of his likeness as Count Dracula, a judge ruled Tuesday.

Superior Court Judge Bernard S. Jefferson's 40-page decision did not specify any amount of damages to be awarded Lugosi's son, Bela George Lugosi, a lawyer, and the actor's widow, Hope.

The court held that the actor, who died in 1956, played the Dracula role for Universal under a 1930 contract that permitted use of his likeness for the movies but no other commercial purposes.

About four years after Lugosi's death, Universal began licensing manufacturers of shifts, games, Halloween masks and other items to reproduce his likeness as the vampire. Universal had contended the heirs' consent was not necessary.

Jayne's Son Wins Judgment

VENTURA, Calif. (AP) — A $10,000 judgment has been awarded the son of the late actress Jayne Mansfield, 12-year-old Zoltan Hargitay, for a mauling he received from a lion at an amusement park six years ago.

Superior Court Commissioner Kenneth Haymker approved the out-of-court settlement Thursday on the suit originally filed for a $1.6 million against now-bankrupt Jungledale of nearby Thousand Oaks.

The settlement was reached by lawyers for the boy's father, actor Mickey Hargitay, and for Jungledale's insurance company.

Famous Voice Now Silenced

BETH EL, Conn. (AP) — Howard Barlow, the Voice of Firestone on radio and television from 1943 to 1961, died Monday night. He was 80.

Barlow began his career in 1919 as the popular symphony conductor on CBS and continued in the 1920s and 1930s as the network's first musical director.

He is survived by his wife, Jeanette, known professionally as actress Ann Winston.

Death was apparently the result of a heart attack.

Although Barlow was well-known on radio since the 1920s, his fame dated from 1943 when he became conductor of the 46-piece Firestone Orchestra on NBC and later on ABC radio and television.

POPULAR SONG

Close to 75 different versions of the song Snowbird, written by Canadian Gene MacLellan, have so far been recorded.

O'Toole Wins $225,000 Award

NEW YORK (AP) — Actor Peter O'Toole has won a $225,000 judgment against producer Joseph E. Levine and two motion picture companies in connection with his performance in the film The Lion in Winter.

Justice Gerald Cullin of the state Supreme Court rejected Thursday arguments by the defendants that O'Toole violated the terms of his contract with "disgraceful conduct" during filming of the movie in 1967.

'The Duke' Cannot Foretell How Long Style Will Last

SINGAPORE (AP) — For five decades millions have swayed and stomped to the music of Duke Ellington. But the Duke says it's a waste of time trying to figure out how tastes will change.

"Do you think it's some kind of crap game?" he asked an interviewer Monday during a stopover en route to Jakarta.

"Trends in music depend entirely on people. I can't foresee. Don't worry about what it's going to be next week. That's bad investment."

Ellington, 70 last April, said his music is "an accumulation of recall."

"I've been writing music as a matter of brain inter-sound," the veteran composer and recording artist told reporters.

Following rave performances in Thailand and Malaysia, Ellington and his 20-man band are giving two concerts in Jakarta and then will perform in Singapore.

STORRS, Conn. (AP) — A speech professor at the University of Connecticut says predictable violence on television has little effect on young viewers.

"The more predictable the violent show, the less aroused the viewer became," Dr. Gerhard J. Hanneman said of a study he conducted under an $8,000 grant from the University of Connecticut Research Foundation.

"Young children do not realize the significance of the violence they are watching," he said, adding that these children show as much reaction to a novel scene from Lassie as they do from watching a brutal beating on TV.

He said the findings indicated that the more a person watches TV violence, the less reaction he will have.

He tested groups of college students and groups of children from six to 10 years of age.

He noted the college students, who knew the significance of death and injury, showed more anxiety over violence than did the young children.

LONDON (AP) — All Over, a new play by Edward Albee, won generous applause from the audience at its British premiere Monday night but ran into a mixed reception from London's theatre critics today.

The reviewers were unanimous, however, in praising the acting of Dame Peggy Aschcroft and Hollywood's Angela Lansbury, making her first stage appearance in London.

Dame Peggy and Miss Lansbury play the wife and mistress of some presumably great American dying at the back of the stage while they discuss his place in their lives.

"It is written in beautiful elaborate English, polished to a high literary sheen, which recalls the prose of another American mandarin, Henry James," writes Herbert Kretzmer in The Daily Express.

But The Daily Telegraph's John Barber says: "Every Edward Albee play seems slower and more portentous than the last. In the latest, All Over, only the tatters of his former talent survive."

Michael Billington of The Guardian describes the work as a fascinating theatrical experience.

Irving Wardle of The Times calls the play "a funeral piece," but The Daily Mirror's Arthur Thirkell says: "Every one of Albee's characters has the ring of truth."

Dan Rowan Has An Op

ROCHESTER, Minn. (AP) — Dan Rowan, co-star of television's Laugh In, completed his checkup at Mayo Clinic Wednesday after having a small cyst removed from his right shoulder.

Rowan said other than having the cyst removed, "I'm in fine shape."

He returned to Los Angeles.

Round-The-Clock Radio, TV Now Permitted In Britain

LONDON (CP) — In a move that will bring some comfort to both private and public broadcasters, the British government has decided to permit round-the-clock radio and TV programs but to defer indefinitely the opening of a fourth television channel.

Private broadcasters, who wanted the last of Britain's available TV channels, get a consolation prize in that they earlier were given the go-ahead for commercial radio, which is expected to become operative in 1973. The extended TV hours also will give them more advertising revenue.

They now have one TV channel while the BBC has two.

For the BBC, the announcement by Communications Minister Christopher Chataway Wednesday means it can extend its radio broadcasting by three hours a day while the prospect of competition from a second commercial TV channel is deferred.

At present the independents and one BBC channel are allowed 66 hours of TV broadcasting a week. The second BBC channel, leaning somewhat to educational and cultural programs, gets 36 hours a week.

The Independent Television

Authority, which regulates the commercial operation, had asked that the available fourth channel be allocated to its broadcasters. But Chataway told Parliament he is "not persuaded that the time has yet come to allocate the fourth network."

The minister emphasized that no decrease will be permitted in the amount of time given to educational programs and such regional ones as those in the Welsh language.

On the radio side, the enlargement of hours will permit the independents to broadcast between 2 a.m. and 5 a.m., which now are silent.

'Peg's Ballet Applauded

MELBOURNE (CP) — Packed houses, excited reviews and wildly-cheering audiences have greeted the opening of the Australian tour of the Royal Winnipeg Ballet.

Ballet is Dazzling, said the headline over one review the morning after the opening night in Brisbane's top theatre. Another headline was Magic and Mortals Meet.

Within hours of the reviews hitting the streets the projected two-week season in Sydney was increased to three weeks. Tickets are sold out in Brisbane and there are few good seats left even in the extended Sydney week.

The ballet company will be in Australia almost two months. A number of newspapers have devoted page-long pre-season descriptions of the ballet which until now has been little known in Australia.

Critic Jean Sinclair in the Brisbane Telegraph wrote after the opening night: "The Royal Winnipeg Ballet's refreshing individual approach brought storms of applause. Ballets completely new to Brisbane were done with eloquence of movement and butter-smooth technique."

"While the company is firmly classically-based, it well explore the reality that lies outside the fairytale confines of conventional ballet. The evening was packed with sustained novelty."

In the Brisbane Courier Mail, ballet critic Constance Cummins said the company danced with "unfailing confidence and stylish exuberance."

She added: "These dancers have great verve and strong personalities that quickly drew a warm response from the audience which took to them wholeheartedly."

Billy Dee Williams Soars To Dizzy Heights Of Stardom

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Billy Dee Williams, a 34-year-old black actor, is a suddenly hot movie and television property.

Williams, a 14-year acting veteran, became an overnight star last Nov. 3 in Brian's Song, which ABC said drew the largest audience of any movie ever made for television—and rave reviews.

The six-foot-tall Billy played Sayers in an adaptation of the professional football star's real-life friendship with his late, white, Chicago Bears teammate, Brian Piccolo.

A locker-room scene where Sayers tearfully tells his beefy fellow players of Piccolo's illness—lung cancer, fatal at 26—was among several powerfully moving sequences.

James Caan also was brilliant as Piccolo, and one reviewer asked: "How do you split an Emmy? . . . Both deserve to win."

ABC and Columbia Pictures have released the TV feature to theatres, and for Billy the offers are rolling in—three TV series, two features so far.

Viewers will see Williams again Feb. 4 as a convict boss in CBS' 90-minute version of Truman Capote's The Glass House filmed entirely at the Utah State prison with real prisoners as extras.

Actress, Actor Agree To Split

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actress Shirley Jones and her husband, actor Jack Cassidy, have agreed on a trial separation after 15 years of marriage.

The actress, star of The Partridge Family television series, said Thursday that no formal legal action was planned. The couple were married in 1956. They have three sons.

Singer David Cassidy, also a Partridge Family star, is Cassidy's son by a previous marriage.

HELPS DISABLED

Canadian-born actor Raymond Burr, star of TV's Ironside drama series, has volunteered his time to make a 30-second television film to promote The Ability Fund, a national campaign conducted in Canada on behalf of physically-disabled Canadians.

Actor Divorces Wife Again

SANTO DOMINGO (Reuter) — Actor George C. Scott and his Montreal-born wife, actress Colleen Dewhurst, were divorced recently for the second time. The first time Scott, 44, and Colleen were divorced was in Juarez, Mexico, in July, 1965. They remarried in July, 1967.

Miss Dewhurst, 47, was in court when the divorce was granted. Scott, winner of an Oscar last year as best actor for his appearance in the movie Patton—an award he refused to accept—was represented by a lawyer.

Court was told Miss Dewhurst will receive a separation allowance and that Scott will pay alimony.

APPEARS BEFORE WATER BOARD

Make Rutland A Municipality "Newcomer" Urges In Brief

The "immediate" incorporation of Rutland as a municipality was urged by relative Kelowna newcomer, E. R. Collins, at the regular meeting of the Okanagan Basin Water Board Thursday.

Describing himself as a "private citizen interested in the orderly development of the Okanagan basin," Mr. Collins had other suggestions in a summary of a 13-page brief to the board.

Mr. Collins, who has only resided in the city for 18 months, also advocated extension of Kelowna boundaries, which he deemed necessary "if it wishes to grow." He added no city could remain "static" in a growing community such as is envisioned in the area today.

His brief urged immediate consideration to extending the city's boundaries to include two points which could be served "relatively easy from the recently installed Five Bridges collector and the Ethel Street trunk line."

VIGOROUS GROWTH
Mr. Collins described Rutland as a "vigorously growing" community of 10,000 people representing about 52 per cent of Kelowna's population.

"It is unrealistic to expect it to continue to expand on unserved land or on servicing developed by private interests, and without being incorporated as a municipality," Mr. Collins added Rutland "cannot be permitted to expand on a haphazard basis or on septic tanks any longer," and that incorporation should be done on a "voluntary basis."

Falling this, incorporation must be done "involuntarily," the brief added.

The speaker also had something for the Regional District of Central Okanagan, which he said should restrict construction of new multi-family dwellings and tourist accommodation astride Lakeshore Road until piped services were available.

The regional district should also set up a short-term program for the acquisition of privately-owned sewage disposal plants and systems.

Mr. Collins said his brief was designed to "direct attention" primarily to those sections of the Okanagan Basin Study dealing with water quality and social and economic aspects. The brief was also directed, to a lesser extent, on waste treatment, with particular emphasis on residential development and sewage treatment.

Regional District of Central Okanagan chairman W. C. Bennett, suggested a copy of the brief be sent to the district board, adding he could have a "real good discussion" with Mr. Collins on some aspects of the brief. Mr. Collins said that was the "main object" of the brief.

ROTH AGREES
From Mayor Hilbert Roth, Mr. Collins was commended for his presentation. He added he agreed "wholeheartedly" with recommendations made in the brief about Rutland.

In self-defence, Rutland board member, Mel Marshall, said he thought it was "up to the people of Rutland" if they wanted to incorporate their community and added Rutland had two sewage systems and one large system. He was referring to reference in the brief to pinpointing septic tank use.

With all due respect to Mr. Collins, the brief was received and filed by the board following a suggestion by chairman Len Bawtree the brief be submitted to the regional district.

of the Diocese of Toronto, Camp Longford Mills, Ont., for ten years.

He served as assistant Curate, St. Matthew's Church, Islington, Ont. Parish of Shuswap Lakes, Diocese of Kootenay, and at the Sorrento Lay Training Centre in a managerial position for one year before going to the Parish of Fernie in 1965.

'Miss Crease' Identified
KAMLOOPS (CP)—The mysterious "Miss Crease," who couldn't be found on the list of provincial civil servants although she had travelled aboard government aircraft as such, has turned out to be Rehabilitation Minister Phil Gaglardi's private secretary here.

She is, in fact, 21-year-old Beverly Kriesie, who works in the local office of the Provincial Alliance of Businessmen, a government employment agency created by Mr. Gaglardi.

William Hartley, New Democratic Party member of the legislature for Yale - Lillooet, raised the question of Miss Kriesie's status in the legislature Wednesday.

He said, passenger logs on government aircraft listed a "Miss Crease" as having travelled on government aircraft between Vancouver, Victoria and Kamloops last March. The logs identified her as representing the rehabilitation department.

EXPLAINS SITUATION
When Mr. Hartley was unable to find a "Miss Crease" listed by the civil service, he asked a number of questions about just who she was and who she was employed by.

The log listing apparently was made phonetically, and Miss Kriesie surfaced here Thursday to explain the situation.

PEACHLAND (Special) — St. Margaret's Anglican Church, Peachland, and St. George's Anglican Church, Westbank, are to have a new minister.

Rev. Raymond G. Bray and Mrs. Bray are expected to arrive this week, and will reside in Westbank. The two westside churches have been without the services of regular clergy since last July when Canon Robert Brown became full time priest at St. Michael and All Angels in Kelowna.

The Rev. and Mrs. Bray are coming from the Parish of Fernie Diocese of Kootenay where the Reverend Bray has served since 1965.

Rev. Bray was born in Toronto and received most of his education in Ontario. He attended the University of Toronto, for two years, Sir George Williams University, Montreal, for two years and Huron College, London, Ont.

He was ordained Deacon on May 15, 1960, and as priest May 14, 1961.

Prior to ordination he was assistant manager and manager of the Diocese of Toronto, Camp Longford Mills, Ont., for ten years.

He served as assistant Curate, St. Matthew's Church, Islington, Ont. Parish of Shuswap Lakes, Diocese of Kootenay, and at the Sorrento Lay Training Centre in a managerial position for one year before going to the Parish of Fernie in 1965.

RUTLAND SOCIALS
RUTLAND (Staff) — Mr. and Mrs. Errol McCarthy, of McCarthy Road, have returned from the Coast with their baby, who was welcomed home by his sister Holly Ann.

RUTLAND (Special) — Dr. and Mrs. Wilfred Tetz and family from Lacombe, Alta., were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred How.

Mr. and Mrs. Tim Lemky, from Port Alberni, have recently taken up residence in the district.

From Sedgewick, Alta., were Mr. and Mrs. Ron Bownes and Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Anderson; and from CUC Lacombe, Alta., were Harriet Anderson and Melvin Kindopp, enjoying a visit here with friends and relatives.

In the absence of clergy, and rectors warden, Ivor Jackson, Mrs. W. L. Lawrence was elected meeting chairwomen.

Welcomed to this meeting was a member of St. George's church committee, Mr. Derek Parke, of Westbank.

Treasurers report was read, showing an increased budget for 1971 with all commitments met, as well as a donation to the Primate's World Relief Fund.

The Peoples' Warden report was given by Mrs. W. L. Lawrence, who outlined the past year's activities, stating St. Margaret's has had a fairly successful year. Once again we have seen numerous clergy serving our parish and while each in his own way has added to our church life, the fact remains that our worship service lacked the stability of a regular priest. She went on to list clergy who had served the parish.

Canon Robert Brown, Rev. Paul Robinson, Rev. Sparrow, and for the last few months of the year Rev. R. H. Lloyd-Davies. She stated average attendance at services has increased from 1970, a trend she hopes will continue.

Also reported was that four of St. Margaret's young people are attending confirmation classes in Westbank.

The special events taking place in the past year were reviewed, the parish pot luck supper, when Mr. A. Hilsland was guest speaker and the Regional Fiesta, held to honor Bishop Scott prior to his leaving to assume duties as Primate of Canada.

She ended the report by thanking the congregation for the trust they had placed in her and for their support.

Mrs. M. Leavitt gave a report on the altar guild, which started in July.

Mrs. H. C. MacNeill, one of the two Anglican Sunday School teachers who teach in the Joint tri-church community Sunday School, reported 50 children regularly attend and it has been a very successful year.

Visitor, Mr. Parkes, was appointed chairman for election of officers. Elected were Ivor Jackson, rector's warden; W. L. Lawrence, people's warden; lay delegate to senate, Mervin Leavitt; secretary, Mrs. W. L. Lawrence; treasurer, Mervin Leavitt; regional delegates Mrs. Earl Sutherland and Mrs. H. C. MacNeill, with alternate Mrs. Garth Patterson. The 1972 church committee will consist of all the elected officers and Pennece d'une Amazone, Thoughts of an Amazon.

Getting A Ferry Wasn't So Easy

By URSULA SURTEES

In 1958 an event took place which even the most optimistic of our early pioneers never dared dream about—the opening of our famous Okanagan Lake bridge.

Prior to that time, there was the regular race to catch the ferry. Many a traveller has felt his heart sink as he suddenly met a line of cars coming up the road from the direction of the lake. This could only mean that the ferry was in, and the possibility that he had missed it was strong indeed, meaning he would have to wait for the next one.

Way back in 1885 the McDougall brothers provided a ferry service of sorts using a sixteen foot long scow. This could carry up to five pack horses, but the power for propelling the scow across the lake was provided by the strong back and arms of the rowers. The service was very "hit and miss" to say the least, as one brother lived twelve miles from the ferry, and the other four—both were apt to be away on hunting trips when needed most.

By 1904 Kelowna was growing nicely and the settlement on the west side was expanding; the need for a reliable and regular ferry service was becoming a necessity. In December of that year a petition was being circulated on both sides of the Lake to stir some action in government circles to this end.

In early 1905, the petition is still going strong with Vernon, Peachland, Kelowna and Summerland all involved. It was finally sent to Price Ellison to place before the government.

Mr. Ellison acknowledged receipt of the petition, promising "to press the matter as strenuously as lies in my power." About this time a little uneasiness was felt on the west side concerning the location of the proposed ferry. Arguments about the most suitable situation went back and forth, until finally the "Kelowna Clarion" prints in exasperation "We want a ferry, and we are not particular WHERE it is located."

In April 1905 an amount of $1,000 dollars was granted by the government to finance a ferry service between Kelowna and Westbank. Immediately a number of solid citizens were up in arms. What, they wanted to know, could they get for a miserable amount like that? Price Ellison hurriedly suggested a meeting of all interested people to put forth suggestions as to what could be done within the limits of the $1,000 appropriation.

He further suggested that possibly an open scow with a small engine would do until better things could be secured. Apparently his suggestion was adopted. Tenders were called for, and H. B. D. Lysons got the contract.

He built a motor boat, the "Skookum", which was thirty feet long and powered with a one cylinder seven horse power engine.

This towed the scow of approximately forty feet and the conveyance received a yearly subsidy of $1,000. In return it was expected to make two round trips a day, weather permitting. No Sunday service. Fares were 25 cents per passenger and $1.00 per horse. So it was that on April 1906, the Kelowna-Westbank Ferry was officially started on its regular service.

NO REFERENDUM
QUESNEL (CP) — Quesnel school board has decided to cut its budget or ask the provincial government for a special grant in order to conform to the provincial government's 108 per cent formula for school budgets. The steps were taken rather than ask voters to approve the additional amount above 108 per cent of the basic educational program as is required. The board must cut $31,000 to reach the 108 per cent figure.

Goodenough, a cook from Berkshire, had been charged with fellow seaman David Evans, 21, with murdering Ross Hawley, a Canadian, in Auckland last Aug. 24.

Both men from the Royal Navy anti-submarine frigate Danae, denied the charge.

Mr. Justice Moller heard in chambers an application by Goodenough's defence counsel and then discharged Goodenough. He said he would give no reasons because the case against Evans will continue.

The two sailors were arrested at Fremantle, Western Australia, after their ship docked there from Adelaide.

SHOOT-OUT
Saturday morning, the ice sculpture contest gets underway and it is followed by the High Noon Shoot-out, a showdown on the main street between the mayors of Penticton, Kelowna, Vernon and Kamloops. Immediately afterwards, the Carnival Parade moves down Barnard Avenue.

Night events Saturday include a Junior A hockey game and the Teen Snowswirl dance in the Community Centre Auditorium.

Sunday, a sports car gymkhana will get underway at 10:30 a.m. Other highlights include a Feather Fancier and Hobby Show and a party for handicapped children.

Monday will see the commencement of a curling bonspiel, a children's masquerade skating party and a Western Night at the Community Centre auditorium.

Most of the preparations have been made, the townsfolk are keyed up and ready to go and today the Vernon Winter Carnival, our northern neighbor's annual 10-day midwinter bash, gets underway officially.

Festivities begin at 6:30 p.m. with a colorful torchlight parade, which starts off at the Carnival Ice Palace and leads up to the coronation of Queen Silver Star XII, who this year is 17-year-old Shelly Medynski. She'll be crowned by retiring queen, Brenda Davison.

The carnival has grown considerably since its inception in 1960 and the events planned for this year's extravaganza are impossible to keep track of without a program.

But for Kelowna residents planning to take in a day or two, a brief rundown of the highlights might be in order.

Friday night will feature a winter's fiesta barbecue at the ice palace, swimming in the indoor pool, the start of an invitational pee-wee hockey tournament, an evening of folk singing at the Elks' Hall and the gala Snowflake Ball in the Community Centre Auditorium.

LOTS MORE
Wednesday night, there's another Junior A hockey game in the arena and a Bavarian Bierfest in the Community Centre Auditorium, featuring a Bavarian band and dance troupe.

Thursday's highlights include an art exhibition and a Ukrainian night in the Royal Canadian Legion Hall. Friday night is Mardi Gras night in the Community Centre Auditorium and as well, there will be a ten moccasin dance in the Civic Arena and a Roman Holidays Celebration at Clarence Fulton School.

The final two days of the carnival are loaded with events, and Saturday will see a swim meet at the indoor pool. Fairview on Ice for the kids, the start of snowmobile races at the Tillicum Speedway, Klondyke Kapers in the Civic Centre Auditorium, a snowmobile race and the North Okanagan Cubs, Scouts and Venturers Ice Stampede.

Sunday, the snowmobile races wind up, the Winter Carnival Ski Classic takes place on Silver Star and there will be a 20-game bowling marathon and a duplicate bridge championship.

Turner Coming To Carnival
VERNON — Federal Finance Minister John Turner will be in Vernon this weekend to participate in Winter Carnival festivities, but his itinerary remains somewhat uncertain.

Mr. Turner is scheduled to arrive Saturday morning at 11:30 but may have to return to Ottawa the same day. A press conference has been tentatively set up for Saturday morning but is subject to change if Mr. Turner's schedule is altered.

Last-minute conferences forced postponement of the minister's visit to the Carnival last year and local officials were concerned earlier this week that Mr. Turner's recent appointment to the finance ministry might have precluded his making the trip again this year.

Other guests expected to be on hand for the Carnival on the weekend include Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell, North Okanagan MLA Pat Jordan and Okanagan-Kootenay MP Doug Stewart. Representing Penticton, which is the Carnival's honor city this year, will be Mayor Frank Laird.

PADDLING STAYS
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Spanking and other forms of corporal punishment will be allowed to continue in the second largest school system in the United States. By a 4-to-3 vote, the Los Angeles board of education approved the paddle policy Thursday night.

Monthly Meeting Held By Guild

WESTBANK (Special) — St. George's Anglican Guild, Westbank, held their February meeting Tuesday evening with 15 members in attendance.

A card of thanks was read from Mrs. Ida Brown and her son Robert for all the prayers said for Robert while he was undergoing an operation in the U.S., as well as for other help given. Robert is at home now and improving every day.

It was moved that all bills be paid and a letter to be written to Ernie Burnett thanking him for all the plants he has given to St. George's Church. A discussion on candles took place and an order for a box will be sent.

J. H. Blackey, who recently moved from Westbank and went to Kelowna, has been seriously ill and had to return from his holiday in California for an operation. He is now on the mend.

Mrs. John Brown, who moved with her family to Vancouver some time ago, and was a most active member of the Guild and the Eastern Star in Kelowna, has been very ill.

There is a telephone now in the hall and the expense will be shared with the kindergarten, guild and church committee.

A discussion on catering took place and a report on the parish supper was given.

The guild will hold a whist drive on Feb. 11 in the Parish Hall. Mrs. J. Paynter and Mrs. Mackay will arrange the affair.

A discussion also took place regarding a spring bake sale and tea. It was decided to have this on April 8.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

By JEANE DIXON

Aries (March 21-April 19): Conventional lines are apt to yield results well enough for today's needs. You are much appreciated in your home.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Practical action has to prevail over sudden whims. Where you have any chance at all, seek the finer traits of your loved ones, refresh your home life.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Organize your crew for a day of festivity, a night of celebration. Avoid extremes.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): People you care about are firmly behind you, but some what impatient. Get going while the time is right. Competitive activity isn't the most desirable stance but could work out well.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Prove your own local environment; rather about you those who have promised co-operation.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Just getting through the day in a happy frame of mind is an adventure. Prepare for the future while appreciating the present.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Early hours are quiet, merging into gala moods as romantic interests thrive.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Other people's struggles spill over into your path, both career wise and personal projects. There's nothing for it but to help clear matters up.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): None other than the best is apt to suit you today. Younger people you've encouraged bring you pride.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Like as not there are several family behind you, but some what impatient. Get going while the time is right. Competitive activity isn't the most desirable stance but could work out well.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Most of what happens now is high comedy—if you can see the humor at all. Consolidate your resources.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): A slow morning meanders into a much livelier afternoon and evening with an adventure at hand. Pursue sentimental interests.

What's Dosage For Hormones?

By George C. Thosteson, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it safe for a glaucoma patient to take a daily dosage of hormones? I read that anyone with glaucoma should not take hormones as they retain fluid in the body.—M.S.

And too much fluid retention can be an undesirable influence with glaucoma, tending to increase pressure in the eyes, and that is just what must be avoided.

But please note that I say it can be a factor, and distinctly do not say that it will be. The point I'm trying to make is this: some patients with glaucoma may have some other medical problem for which hormones are the preferred treatment. Indeed, by the time we get to the glaucoma age most of us are pretty likely to have something or other the matter with us which needs attention.

The amount of fluid retention from use of hormones depends on the dosage, and it depends also on the individual's reaction. I doubt that the average dosage of hormones would cause enough fluid retention to complicate the glaucoma.

In any event, medication for the glaucoma ordinarily should offset the effect of the hormones.

No, I can't agree that prohibiting hormones in such cases should be a hard and fast rule. It's something for the physician to keep in mind. If eye pressure (the glaucoma) can be reduced to a reasonable level, then in certain cases the use of hormones might be reduced or halted, but when the eye pressure remains satisfactory, I see no reason to worry about the hormones.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is there any cure for fungus under the toenails and fingernails?—Z.C.

If you mean a home remedy, no. But a dermatologist, and sometimes your regular physician, can usually cure it. Depending on the type of fungus, medications sometimes do the job. Other times it is necessary to remove the nail, so medication can be applied more directly to the fungus.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: A friend of ours claims that he has a special substance or acid in his lungs that prevents nicotine and tar buildup. He also claims he can breathe in 90 per cent air pollution without any ill effects. Is it possible?—B.F.

I've spent enough time trying to explode some of the ancient old wives' tales—so now I guess I'll have to do the same for some of the new consensual notions—like the above. Utterly ridiculous.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I understand that hardening of the arteries was prevalent among my ancestors, and from symptoms I believe I may have the same affliction. I am particularly alarmed about my vision.

Would a physician be able to prescribe medication to help control this malady?—F.E.T.

Only within certain limits. There is no way to unhardened arteries, but one of the principal consequences of hardened arteries is high blood pressure, which can be harmful. A variety of ways. Also, high cholesterol may be a factor.

You certainly should see a doctor, find out whether your blood pressure and cholesterol are too high, and if so start treatment to reduce both. The eyes can, indeed, be affected by high blood pressure, so if I were you I would get after this right away.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By B. JAY BECKER

TEST YOUR PLAY

1. You are declarer with the West hand at three notrump and north leads the nine of hearts. How would you play the hand?

2. You are declarer with the West hand at five diamonds. The bidding has been:

West North East South
 1♦ 2♣ 3♦ Pass
 4♦ Pass 5♦ Pass

North leads the king of clubs. How would you play the hand?

3. This is one of those hands where, with correct play, you can't lose the contract no matter how the cards are divided. Win the heart with the ace, play a spade to the king, and finesse the jack of clubs. If North has the king, you are sure to make the hand by repeating the finesse, so let's assume the jack loses to South's.

South cannot return a spade or a heart without handing you a vital trick, while if he returns a diamond or a club you automatically make nine tricks—two spades, two hearts, two diamonds and three clubs—by forcing out the ace of diamonds. If you started by attempting a heart finesse at trick one, the contract would lose its gilded status if South had something like five hearts to the queen, plus the ace of diamonds and king of clubs. Similarly,

Rhodesian Plan Not Wanted

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP)— The three African members of the United Nations Security Council introduced a resolution today urging Britain to abandon its proposed settlement with Rhodesia and to call a constitutional conference on the country's future.

Foreign Minister Omar Arif of Somalia said the resolution sponsored by Guinea, Somalia and Sudan has the full support of all 41 states in the Organization of African Unity.

Britain, which has already vetoed a Security Council condemnation of the Rhodesian settlement, told delegates during private discussions this week that it is prepared to veto this resolution also.

The British say they will not interrupt the work of the Peace Commission, sent to Rhodesia to test public opinion about the settlement. They also object to part of the resolution referring to British failure to end the Rhodesian rebellion.

African militants object to the Peace Commission as part of arrangements worked out with the white-minority government in Salisbury, which they say will defer black-majority political rights for many years. A vote on the resolution was not expected until Friday, the final day of the council's first meeting in Africa, African sources said.

you could fail in your mission if you won the ace of hearts at trick one and led a diamond at trick two. If North had the ace and played another heart at trick three, you might find yourself in deep trouble.

2. The potential losers are two hearts and a club, for North may have the A-Q of hearts in addition to the K-Q of clubs. To overcome this possibility, it is best to arrange for an endplay. Win the king of clubs with the ace, draw trumps, lead the K-Q of spades, overtaking the second one with the ace, and cash the jack of spades, discarding a club from dummy. Then play the jack of clubs, saddling North with the lead and forcing him to either lead a heart or yield a ruff and discard.

Rose Trial On Monday

MONTREAL (CP)— Jacques Rose, 23-year-old mechanic, begins his trial Monday on a charge of kidnapping Pierre Laporte, former Quebec labor minister, in October, 1970.

Rose, known for violent courtroom outbursts, is the younger brother of Paul Rose, who has been convicted and sentenced to two concurrent life terms for the murder and kidnapping of Mr. Laporte.

Defence lawyers will be Robert Lemieux and Jean-Serge Masse, the first time any of the four men charged in the kidnapping crisis has had a lawyer defending him on the kidnapping charge.

Paul Rose defended himself with the help of Mr. Masse, his legal adviser, and Bernard Lortie, convicted of kidnapping last Sept. 22, did not bother defending himself or appointing a lawyer.

Lortie is serving a 20-year sentence for the kidnapping. The date for his murder trial is to be set March 6.

Francis Simard, serving a life sentence for murder, will have his date for the kidnapping trial set March 6.

Mr. Lemieux had asked Jan. 7, when Jacques's trial date was set, that the Crown proceed with the murder charge first. The request was refused.

The 30-year-old lawyer, who has defended several members of the Front de Liberation du Quebec, made a similar request when Lortie appeared for his trial but it also was refused. In both cases the Crown said it had the prerogative to choose which charge to proceed with first.

Mr. Justice Roger Ouellet of Court of Queen's Bench will preside at the trial.

Traffic Deaths Show Increase

OTTAWA (CP)— Traffic deaths climbed by an estimated 10 per cent in the first nine months of 1971 and fatal accidents by an estimated 3.5 per cent, the Canada Safety Council said today.

Traffic deaths were estimated at 3,844, up from 3,695 in the comparable period of 1970. Fatal accidents rose to an estimated 3,237 from 3,067. Injuries were 3.3 per cent higher at an estimated 133,000 compared with 129,000. Total accidents were estimated at 347,161 compared with 355,420. The council estimates were based on Statistics Canada reports.

AUSTRIAN VIEWS CANADA

Common Law System 'A Saviour'

OTTAWA (CP) — The common law system, says an Austrian, may be the last chance Canadians have to protect themselves from a public panic that could lead to a "new dictatorship" which would oversee every part of our life.

Ivan Illich, educational philosopher, told the national conference on the law Thursday: "Insistence on due process of government by the application of plans made by self-appointed engineers of the future."

Many of the 350 delegates at the conference—mostly lawyers, academics and legislators—spent the rest of the day brewing over that prospect.

The four-day conference—the first of its kind in Canada—ends today.

The question the delegates asked themselves was how the political and legal systems can be tuned up to solve the problems of spreading technology, and the impenetrable bureaucracies it breeds, without creating the gruesome nightmare pictured by Mr. Illich.

Mr. Illich, who runs the Centre for International Documentation at Cuernavaca, Mexico, put forth a blizzard of ideas of his own on the issue.

Retool society, he urged, to break the monopoly that institutions have on means of existence.

Give the powers of big business, big law, big medicine, big education back to the people, letting them fashion their own lives.

The merits and efficiency of mass technology are illusions, he said.

"As the power of machines increases, man's individual role decreases to that of a mere consumer."

Ultimately, even his choices as a consumer are removed as he is forced to buy the wares of organized business, medicine and the rest.

The common law—the accumulated body of rights and responsibilities in and out of statutes—offered the chance to the public to reverse these trends and avoid the dictatorship.

In a later workshop, David Suzuki, a University of British Columbia zoologist, agreed that scientists and engineers have neglected to account for the social side-effects of their innovations.

Dr. Suzuki, known for his television series on the subject, pointed to the future potential of genetics and changing the personality and chemistry of men as a problem with great social consequences—a problem lawyers must learn to understand.

In still another workshop, delegates questioned the role of Parliament and MPs both in reflecting public opinion and meeting urgent, quickly-emerging social ills.

Former labor minister Bryce Mackasey said he thinks the Commons has improved as an instrument of public opinion.

He noted the government's white paper process as an example.

But other delegates argued that Parliament is not finding an escape from the dilemma of promptly facing social and technological change while taking the time to seek and understand public views.

LANG URGES ACTION

In a banquet speech, Justice Minister Otto Lang urged the lawyers to use their skills of deduction to help people compromise.

He stressed the values of reasonableness and the dignity of the individual in the face of public impatience.

Attorney-General Al Mackenzie told the workshop on Parliament that political parties must put real policy choices—not just slogans—before the voters so they could put their views into law.
